NFU Spokesman Tells Congress

Wheat Windfall Could Hit $100 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Farmers Union said today that big grain companies easily could have collected windfall profits of $100 million under export-subsidy maneuvering allowed by the Agriculture Department in wheat sales to the Soviet Union.

Weldon V. Barton, NFU legislative representative, told Congress in prepared testimony that the $100-million figure was only a possibility, however.

"Actual windfalls have been, or will be, realized to the extent that certain grain-trade companies had 'inside' information on which they could gamble on staggering their contracting for sale to the Soviets or other countries and their booking for export subsidies," Barton said.

A House subcommittee is checking into allegations that some private exporting companies had advance or inside information on sales and subsidies.

The probe, into sales totaling 400 million bushels of wheat to the Soviets, began last Thursday.

Charles W. Pence, an official with the Export Marketing Service in USDA, also was to appear today before the panel, headed by Rep. Graham Purcell, D-Tex.

Pence, earlier testimony showed, telephoned a number of exporters on Aug. 24 notifying them of a change in exportsubsidy policy. That change was announced publicly a day later.

The subsidies, paid to bridge the difference between U.S. prices and what exporters get for wheat on the world market, were available for one week at a rate of 47 cents per bushel on wheat sold prior to the Aug. 24 cutoff.

Department records showed the 47-cent subsidies were booked for about 280 million bushels of wheat during the Aug. 25-Sept. 1 grace period at a total value of about $130 million. The subsidy rate since then has been lowered to less than 25 cents a bushel.

Barton said it was possible for an exporter to have bought, for example, 50 miliion bushels of wheat on Aug. 1 and delivered it to an ocean port at a total cost of $1.80½ per bushel.

The export subsidy on Aug. 1, he said, was 16 cents per bushel, making the "world" or export price $1.64½.

"Assume that Company X stored the grain at the port and postponed booking for export subsidies until Aug. 26, when the payment was 47 cents," Barton said.

"Windfall profit to Company X is about 31 cents per bushel (47 cents minus 16 cents) or $15.5 million on 50 million bushels."

Barton said that without specific facts he could only suggest the size of total windfalls that could result from 800 million to 850 million bushels of wheat booked for export since last July 1.

The farm price of wheat rose sharply in late July and August after it was apparent the Russians were buying huge quantities.

Minister Dies In Pulpit

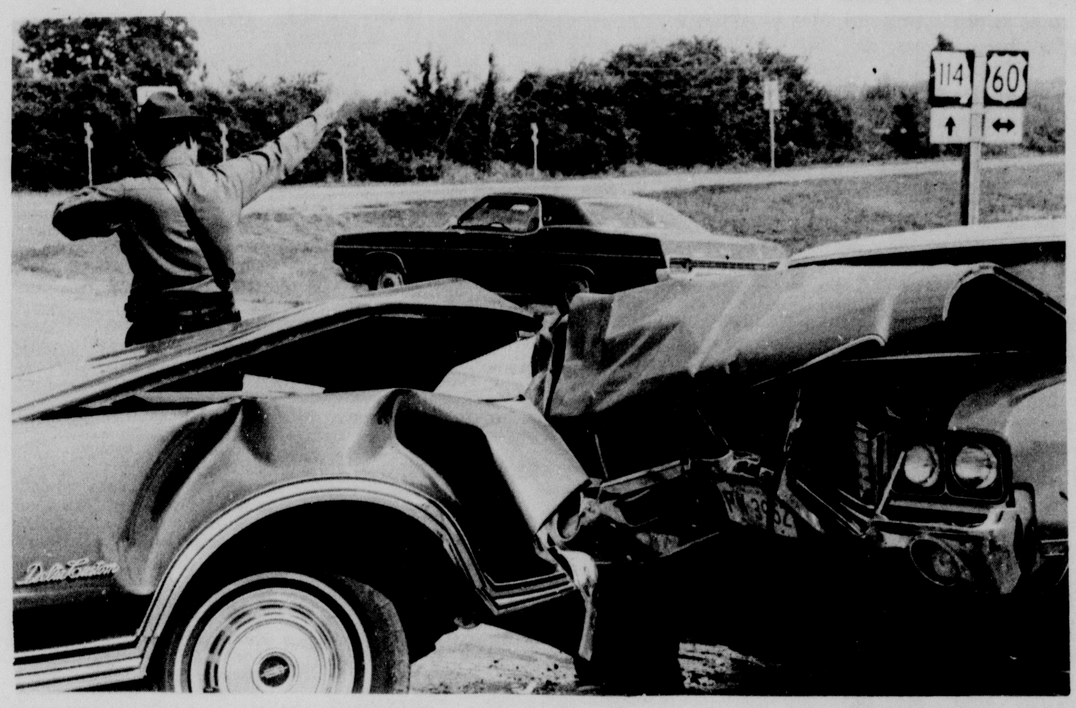

HOLCOMB — The Rev. L. C. Glenn, 71, of Route One died Sunday at 11:50 a.m. from a heart attack while speaking from his pulpit in Tatum Chapel General Baptist Church where he served as minister.

He was born Jan. 13, 1901 in Dalghren, Ill. On Oct. 27, 1922, he married the former Mamie Samples, who survives.

Other survivors include one newphew, Bobby Glenn, of the home; one brother, Oscar L. Glenn; two stepbrothers, George Glenn of Flint, Mich., and Joe Glenn of Mount Vernon, Ill.

Services will be held Tuesday at 2:30 p.m. in Landess Funeral Home with the Rev. Junior Crain officiating.

Burial will be in Pleasant Valley Cemetery.

Campaign Expenses Are Filed

BLOOMFIELD — Stoddard County primary election candidates have filed required affidavits listing campaign expenses, according to County Recorder of Deeds Mrs. Ethel Crites.

State law requires candidates to file a report of their expenses within 30 days following an election. Sept. 9 was deadline for filing these reports.

Expenses of $2,226.78 were reported by Jim McDaniel of Dexter, Democratic candidate for nomination for sheriff.

Democratic candidate for attorney general, James E. Spain of Bloomfield, listed a $100 filing fee, $6,491.72 in campaign expenses for advertisments, campaign supplies of $2,062.32 worker expenses of $375 and worker salaries of $245.29. Spains expenses totaled $9,274.33.

Elber Howard of Puxico listed a filing fee of $25 and campaign expense of $202.80. He was a candidate for state representative from the 157th district.

Democratic candidate for sheriff Edsel Edwards of Bloomfield paid a filing fee of $25 and listed campaign expenses of $576.00.

Gene Worley of Dexter, Democratic candidate for associate judge, second district, listed campaign expenses for $417.95.

Cecil B. Hicks of Essex, Democratic candidate for sheriff, listed a total of $883.57.

Melvin (Churn) Williams of Bloomfield who ran for collector- treasurer, listed a total of $2,393.

Harold Snider of Dexter, who campaigned for associate judge, second district listed his campaign expenses at $348.35.

Democratic candidate for prosecuting attorney Paul McGhee of Dexter listed his total costs at $55.27.

Melvin Gainer of Dexter, candidate for public administrator, reported a total cost of $30.

Willard Darnell of Bloomfield, candidate for treasurer- collector, reported expenses of $1,548.96.

Candidate for nomination for sheriff Jack Hollis of Dexter reported a cost of $172.80.

Ray W. Rainey of Dexter, candidate for coroner, reported $5.70 as his expense.

Jack Ward of Bloomfield, candidate for the office of associate judge, first district

Fire Guts Prairie House

EAST PRAIRIE — A fire of undetermined origin gutted the frame home of Mrs. Alma Morgan, 302 Presson St. at 4:40 a.m. Saturday.

Fire Chief Frank King said the interior of the home, furnishings and personal possessions were lost.

Destroying Properties

Sunday night was a bad night for J. W. Sisk of 813 Pine St.

Police charge that Sisk's automobile hit two parked cars on Illinois Avenue at about 8 p.m., continued on to Ables Road where it hit two mailboxes and the rear of a pickup truck, then hit and ripped the north guard rail of the Ables Road and Dona Street bridge, knocked down the bridge warning sign, ran into a ditch and came to rest against a fence northwest of the Ables Road-Dona Street intersetion.

Sisk was charged with careless and imprudent driving, destroying city property and destroying private property.

Sisk tested .04 alcohol content on the breathalyzer, police say. The legal intoxication level begins at .10.

Police also arrested Carol Lovins on Saturday for cashing bogus checks at The Classic Dress Shop and Barkett's Big Star in Midtowner village Shopping Center.

Other arrests over the weekend included David C. Jones of Route Four, driving while intoxicated and driving on a revoked license; Larry G. Cain, 302 South Third St. in Charleston, careless and imprudent driving; Dennis

Two Boys Lying in Road

Three Killed During Weekend

Two St. Louis area youths were killed early Sunday morning and a Doniphan man died Saturday afternoon in two fatal accidents occurring this weekend.

The late death of a motorcycle accident victim brought the number of fatalities on Southeast Missouri highways this year to 115, according to the highway patrol.

Killed Sunday were Lindel Kirby Edmondson, 16, of St. Louis and Larry Campbell, 14, of Webster Groves. The youths were apparently lying in the road asleep and were struck by a truck driven by Paul Roussin, 44, of Festus. The accident, which occurred between 4 and 4:30 a.m. 17 miles north of Poplar Bluff on Highway 67, was not reported by the driver until he reached the Farmington Police Department. He told officers he had not been sure of what he had hit.

Killed Saturday at 1:50 p.m. four miles south of Doniphan on Route A was Claude W. Smith, 59, of Doniphan. He died of injuries sustained when his car ran off the road on a curve and struck a tree.

A motorcycle accident on Sept. 9 on a gravel road near the Arkansas line resulted in the death of John Lewis, 25, of Gary, Ind. Lewis, taken to Blytheville Air Force Base Hospital in Blytheville, Ark., was transferred to Chickasawbe Hospital in Blytheville, where he died at 12:48 Thursday.

Four persons received minor injuries in an accident on Highway 60 two miles east of Poplar Bluff at 10:50 p.m. Saturday. Injured were Harry Bales, 58, of Van Buren, driving a pickup truck, and a passenger, Wayne Hedrick, 38, also of Van Buren. Others injured were James Stinnett, 32, of Cabot, Ark., and a passenger of his car, Ernestine Stinnett, 44, also of Cabot.

The injured were treated at Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff. The accident occurred when the Bales vehicle pulled into the path of Stinnett's car.

One mile south of Holcomb at 7:14 p.m. Saturday, a two-car accident injured five people. A car driven by John Skaggs, 23, of Campbell, was struck by a car driven by Ernest Shephard, 26, of St. Francis, Ark., who received possible chest injuries.

Richard A. Carter, 22, of Piggott, Ark., a passenger in the Shepard auto, sustained cuts on his head. Passengers in the Skaggs car who were injured were Betty Skaggs, 18, of Campbell, possible chest injuries; Leo Skaggs, 21, of Holcomb, possible back injury; and Brenda Skaggs, 24, of Holcomb, minor cuts.

All were treated at Dunklin County Memorial

United Fund Goal Is $46,347

The Sikeston United Fund advance gifts campaign began today and will continue through Oct. 1, when the official SUF drive will begin. This year's budget will be a record $46,347. A kickoff breakfast will be held Oct. 2.

Campaign chairman Rob Mitchell said 11 agencies will benefit from the United Fund campaign this year. He attributed the budget increase to a new policy of including the entire amounts requested by each agency. In past years the requests were trimmed before the campaign began, Mitchell said.

During the advance gifts drive, letters will be mailed to past contributors and campaign workers will also contact donors for contributions. Anyone desiring to give during the advance gifts drive may do so by contacting any member of the board of directors.

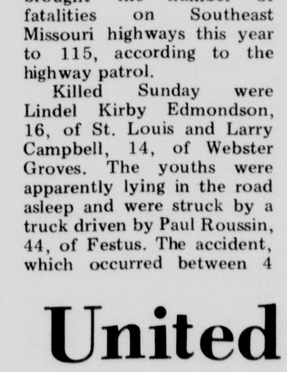

Co-chairman in charge of retail business will be Jerry Bratcher. Lee Shell will serve as co-chairman in charge of industries.

This year's $46,347 budget is an increase of $8,347 over last year's goal of $38,000.

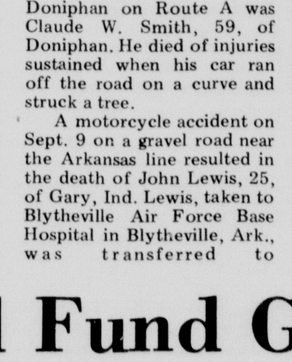

The money is distributed to the 11 agencies and all of it stays in Sikeston. The agencies and their budgets include: Boy Scouts, $10,200; Civil Air Patrol, $850; city welfare, $10,500; Girl Scouts, $8,000; American Red Cross, $5,297; Salvation Army, $3,500; Sikeston Activitiy Center, $1,500; United Service Organ, $500; Community Sheltered Workshop, $2,000; Sikeston Child Development Center, $2,000; and Heritage House, $2,000.

Future articles are planned on each of these establishments to show what purpose they serve and what the money will be used for.

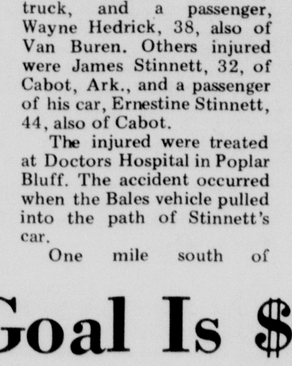

United Fund board members include: Jewell Allen, Jess Lacefield, Emma Owen, Herb Stephens, Betty Mitchell, Lillian Standley, Ilena Aslin, Rich Adams, Jerry Bratcher, B. W. Gunn, Jarrell Griffin, Steve Sikes, Dennis Ziegenhorn, Jean Collins, Lewis Blanton, Ken Masterson, Ken Coffeey, Lee Shell, Fred French, Tom Nunnelee, Tom Gilmore, Terry Conn, Janice Matthews, Charles Green and Mark Rudloff.

The Campaign is on, and time is passing swiftly. No mere U.S. President can bring Utopia, though we have all gone through the stage of thinking that if we can just get our candidate elected, everything will be set right.

Experience can teach us to be realistic, yet we have to be careful that it does not make us pessimistic. Presidents are mortals, more like the rest of us than we dare believe. As Walter Trohan remarked whenHuntley allegedly remarked that he did not sleep easily with the incumbent in the White House: "I have known seven Presidents, so I do not scare easily."

It is not so much the exuberant aspirations of either candidate that count. What counts is the ability of a candidate, his sense of responsibility, and his long-range rather than short-range goals. Pleasing the people now is not half as important as protecting our country's future through responsible policies and programs.

Our system can get you down if you let it. But it is still the best there is so far. Let's keep it that way, and work to make it better.

The editor very seldom apologizes and admits to being wrong, course to himself he does often, but to the public very seldom. But C. R. "Pete" Foster, Robinson Lumber Company's riding boss, took advantage of the weakness of Mrs. Foster and brought the editor some home-made pickles, beets, jelly and sauerkraut. So there is one good thing about the paragraph I had in about nobody making pickles anymore. It did produce some for the editors house and we appreciate it, and of course, we thank Pete, but Mrs. Foster is the one who did the work of putting it up. Anyway, thanks Pete and be certain to read it, maybe you can catch me again.

WE DON'T NEED
THE HYPHEN BACK

When they used to call them "hyphenated Americans," it was a means of identifying the ethnic origins of certain Americans -- Polish - Americans, Irish- Americans, German - Americans, Italian - Americans, and even Canadian and Mexican Americans.

That was a couple of generations ago, and for a while the hyphen faded out. It was enough to be just plain American.

Today, the hypen seems to be coming back in slightly different form. We are tending more and more to group people again by ethnic or racial origins and, in some instances, it has become the name of the game in politics.

This trend has prompted Charles Densford who writes a column to attack such hyphenation by the device of "reductio ad absurdum" -- reducing it to an absurdity.

"My ancestors," he writes, "were English, German and Dutch. My wife's were Spanish, French, Italian, Indian and Mexican.

"Our children, then, must be English - German - Dutch- Spanish- French - Italian- Indian - Mexican -Americans. All of which is ridiculous.

"Furthermore, it is as ridiculous to use one hyphen as it is to use eight of them.

"While my children are vaguely aware of their origins, they think of themselves only as members of that vast conglomerate called "American.' "

This country has long been the "melting pot" of the world. For generations we have taken pride in accepting the poor, the hungry, the oppressed from other lands and absorbing them in our melting pot.

What those people were looking for then was freedom. They asked nothing more than the chance to get a job and raise a family and be known simply as Americans.

If we could all only get back to being just plain Americans again -- proud Americans, dedicated Americans, without the hyphen.

We believe it is time to stop talking about how the Polish- Americans are going to vote, or the Italian - Americans, or the Spanish - Americans, or the Irish-Americans. They're going to vote like Americans, of course. That is, vote their convictions as individuals. That's what America is all about, despite the few dissenters and critics of our land of the free and the brave.

According to U. S. News & World Report, the U.S. lists 524 servicemen captured or interned, and 1,240 missing throughout Indo-China. 915 of these are from the Air Force. 277 are from the Navy. 444 are from the Army. 128 are from the Marines.

From what can be pieced together, 866 are held by the North Vietnam, or were last seen in North Vietnam. In addition, 603 were captured or last seen in South Vietnam, and 293 in Laos. Two pilots, downed in Communist China, are reported to have been interned there.

Some prisoners have been held for more than eight years -- and the majority for at least five years.

North Vietnam has released nine U.S. prisoners, the last three in 1969. The Viet Cong have freed 23. By comparison, 188 North Vietnamese have been repatriated and 1,231 Viet Cong have been released. Also, 3,082 Viet Cong have been let out of prison after defecting to the South Vietnamese government.

How have the POWs been treeated?

North Vietnam became a party to the Geneva Convention governing the treatment of prisoners of war in 1957. The Defense Department annual report for the year starting July 1, 1972, lists the following treaty terms and violations:

--Neutral inspection of prisoner camps will be permitted, including interviews of prisoners without witnesses in attendance.

The enemy has never permitted such inspections or such interviews.

-- Prisoners' names will be released promptly.

Names the enemy has released have not been disclosed promptly nor through regular channels.

-- Notification of deaths in captivity and full information on circumstances and place of burial will be furnished.

The enemy has not furnished any information about circumstances of death and place of burial.

-- Prisoner -of-war camps will be marked clearly and their location made public.

The enemy has not marked its camps nor divulged their location.

-- The seriously sick and wounded will be repatriated or interned in a neutral country.

The enemy has refused to comply.

-- Prisoners will be permitted to send at least two letters and four cards a month.

The average has been two or three letters a year and none at all from some prisoners.

-- Sufficient food must be given to prisoners.

All the released prsoners have been found to be underweight and suffering from malnutrition.

-- Prisoners will not be held in conditions of close confinement.

The enemy has held some men in solitary confinement for years.

-- Prisoners wil be humanely treated.

This provision has been consistently violated.

U. S. Defense officials point out that if all American prisoners are being treated as well as the 10 Ramsey Clark interviewed, then there has been a great improvement in prison conditions since the Viet Cong released the last American Oct. 8, 1971.

But the fact is, the vast majority of Americans held by the Communists have not been seen by anybody but their captors.

We believe the American people can judge what is right and wrong when the POW issue is colored by politics.

NEW YORK (AP) — A computer is a better recall machine than the human memory in some ways.

But it excels only in terms of pure quantity. No human mind could store and then deliver back on demand the millions of figures or letters or words that a computer can.

But when it comes to quality, the machine is hopelessly outclassed. Only the blood-fed heart and mind can recall the flavor of a memory or restore an emotional event with all the impact that it had originally.

You've got a pretty good memory box in your own head if you can push a mental button and it will remember when:

A juvenile delinquent was a kid who pitched pennies at sidewalk cracks for keeps.

A man who skipped going to church on Sunday felt guilty about it all next week.

You weren't a real traveling salesman until you learned to call every Pullman porter "George."

In summer you could tell a dude by his straw boater and two-tone shoes.

In a fair fight, there still was some tradition of sportsmanship. You were supposed to refrain from kicking an opponent when he was down — a rule later dropped by a generation which believes that it is only when a fellow is down that you can give him a proper kicking.

Anyone walking down the street of a small town after midnight would start a dozen dogs barking.

People pushed lawnmowers instead of taking a scenic ride across the lawn on them.

Sometimes it seemed that the only things the parlor of a home were used for were wakes and later, the reading oy the will.

A kid knew the coming Saturday afternoon movie serial would be a dinger if Eddie Polo or Pearl White was in it.

F. Scott and Zelda Fitzgerald were young, alive, in love — and still living together, a romance to remember.

Producer Billy Rose, a former shorthand whiz, was earning a living on Broadway as a song lyricist, turning out such hits as "Me and My Shadow," "The Old Gang of Mine," and the one about some odd character who left Spearmint chewing gum on the bedpost overnight.

A man was as good as his word.

TOO MUCH EMPHASIS ON CANDIDATE STATEMENTS

Both Presidential Hopeful McGovern and President Nixon have advocated a guaranteed income for United States citizens.

Most Americans who are not on the public aid rolls are against the proposals of either, believing that a guaranteed annual income would only encourage idleness, boost inflation, increase unemployment, and make it more difficult for anyone to find help that was willing to work.

However, we believe too much stress is placed on the statements of either of these candidates.

Whether we're Democrat or Republican we should realize that neither Nixon or McGovern can do anything about such a change as a guaranteed annual income without the help of Congress.

Both the House and the Senate at Washington would have to go along and approve such a law, and right now we seriously doubt that either would do so.

In addition, we have a suspicion that both Nixon and McGovern are advocating the guaranteed annual income more as a vote- getting gimmick than as a sincere hope that such a law will be approved.

CONSTRUCTION STARTED FOR A "PLATFORM" CITY

A "platform city" raised approximately fifty feet above the existing street grid is becoming a reality. The Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation has announced that the first phase of Houston Center is now being constructed. Eventually it will occupy 33 contiguous blocks of downtown Houston.

The structure will separate completely vehicular and pedestrian traffic. The first three and one-half levels, along with two underground levels, will be devoted to parking for more than 550 cars. The roof of the garage, about 40 feet above the street level in this structure, will form the main pedestrian level and will be reached from the street by a huge enclosed escalator, elevators and stairwells.

STEPS TO PREVENT PANIC IN BLACKOUTS

What does the Cocoanut Grove fire in Boston in 1942 have to do with today's electrical power shortage?

The real tragedy of that fire in which 491 persons died is that much of the loss of life was due not to the fire itself but to the sheer panic created by the night club suddenly being thrown into complete darkness.

The genesis of emergency lighting dates back to that tragedy. The recent rash of power failures or shortages on the Eastern seaboard has renewed emphasis on the importance of emergency lighting.

"The field of Standby Instantaneous Emergency Power became a full-fledged industry this year when politicians, educators scientists, architects and engineers began to realize that emergency precautions must be taken immediately to prevent panic and danger when there is a blackout or brownout," says Stephen J. Ziff, president of the SoundScriber Corp.

His company's Dual-Lite Division developed the first EXIT sign with self-contained battery and relay that automatically illuminates the sign when normal power fails.

While it is impossible for standby power to correct an entire blackout, there are many individual situations where emergency power or panic lighting can be supplied immediately, says Ziff. Examples are schools, hospitals and commercial and industrial facilities where either personal injury or economic loss may result from a power interruption.

He notes that a power hesitation of just 1/120th of a second can foul up computers and other highly sophisticated instrumentation. A forthcoming revision of the National Electric Code will increase from 30 minutes to 1½ hours the time that emergency lighting must be provided in many public buildings.

All of which suggests a new motto for our time: it is better to light an EXIT sign than to curse the blackout.

REMEMBER THE CZECHS

Opinion -molders and leftist fellow travelers try to have us all forget that such a thing as a communist menace exists. As long as the usual communist famines, executions, and purges are of the routine type, our national mass media largely ignore them. When a major atrocity occurs which cannot be ignored, it is discounted as soon as feasible. Any communist crime is treated differently than are the same or lesser crimes by non -communists.

The enemies of Freedom do not like anyone to bring up the subject of the invasion of Czechoslovakia by Soviet Russia and the Warsaw Pact armies, and when the sjubject of the continuing enslavement of the Czechs comes up, the apologists for communist agression try to counter and silence the topic by equating that with the U.S. defense of Indochina from communist invasion.

The Freedomist needs verbal ammunition to counter the glib and adroit enemies of Freedom. One quick and ready reply to those who try to equate the communist invasion of Czechoslovakia can be to remind your listener that the Czech invasion came in violation of a solemn treaty signed by the Russians shortly before the invasion. Under that treaty, the Czechs thought they were being permitted to "liberalize" their government slightly. Actually, the pact was a typical communist subterfuge to lull the Czechs while the invasion was being planned.

Now a new note has been added. The Russians must maintain heavy occupation forces throughout Eastern Europe to keep the slave nations under control. So now they are sending Czechs to their long frontier with China to help bolster the Soviet armies there. The Soviets may have as many as 50 divisions along that China border now. Czech troops surely have no desire to serve as Russian cannon fodder if the Red giants fight. HLH

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

No Coattails This Year:
Meany Says Unions Can Elect Labor Congress Even in Nixon Sweep
By Victor Riesel

NEW YORK — Insiders are saying that the Ted Kennedy -George McGovern circuit has been the greatest advance tryout in political "showbiz" history, in the parlance of Variety, that weekly blast of freshness which sears through the lewd remains of old Broadway.

Among those insiders are powerful, politically professional labor leaders who sit by glumly while the crowds roar. They watch Ted and say he could have done it this year but positively next time, "in '76."

Meanwhile they --especially the chief of chiefs, George Meany --go about the intense business of electing a Democratic Congress "friendly" to the AFL —CIO. And, make no mistake, the labor committees for Nixon and those for McGovern — Shriver work together on this front.

The McGovern labor group and the special AFL —CIO Congressional committee -- which recently held 35 strategy conferences in 10 key political areas --are pooling their skills on registration and will be shoulder -to -shoulder legions getting out the vote on Election Day.

Once you get them below the Presidential line, labor is united. They're concentrating on electing some 80 members of the House in marginal districts -- and some 16 to 18 in the Senate, especially former Sen. Wayne Morse in Oregon, and Sens. Claiborne Pell in Rhode Island, Lee Metclaf in Montana and Tom McIntrye in New Hampshire.

"I'm interested in electing a friendly Congress," says Meany. "That is what I am devoting all my time and energy to."

Why then all the passionate talk about Presidential neutrality? Dick Nixon has cut into the movement. He has a strong working -class following. He'll out -poll McGovern on the "collar" front --blue and white. And Meany, as a sophisticated labor leader, knowing his movement is split, kept it neutral. But for the most part it still is the Democratic party --of the future, with a Ted Kennedy whom Meany would have endorsed, as he would have a Hubert Humphrey, an Ed Muskie and of course a Henry Jackson.

Meany would even have defied Nixon's strength if he could have continued labor's position inside the Democratic party. But in the words of one of Meany's most influential colleagues, an AFL —CIO vice president who is keeping the Democratic phalanx intact insider labor: "What got George and Al (Barkan, director of the Committee on Political Education) down after all the money and manpower spent in past years is that we represent nothing in McGovern's Democratic party today. These kids will kick us around. They blew all the kingmakers right out of the water and Meany and Barkan see this happening to the labor movement if McGovern wins."

As Meany has put it, he resents the brushoff given the labor people at the Democratic National Convention, objects to the 50 college students who he says were delegates from California; objects to the fact that of 300 labor delegates only one major labor leader was invited to speak though such men as Sen. Gravel got time to praise Communist Angela Davis and was cheered; and objects to resolutions backing the anit -war Vietnam veterans who were questioned by a Federal grand jury in Tallahassee, Fla., about a suspect plot to attack the Republican convention.

Still irked over what he calls labor's "under -representation,"

Meany said recently:

"Working people are the backbone of this nation, and they are not about to be shunted aside in the interest of any privileged elite, or the whims of any political elite, or the theories of an intellectual elite. They will not blindly support those who assault their most deeply held values, demean their intelligence, scorn their organizations, laugh at their patriotism, or sneer at their way of life."

So Meany and the movement unitedly head for control of Congress --scoffing at the "coattail" theory as a bit of cocktail reception conservation naivete. Meany doesn't believe that a sweep by Richard Nixon would also sweep in a Republican Congress. He has pointed to Dwight Eisenhower's landslide election in 1956 --with the loss of two seats in the House and a break --even in the Senate.

Meany points to a poll taken by Democratic Congressman James O'Hara of Michigan's heavily blue -collar 12 district --which is Macomb County and part of Detroit.

Rep. O'Hara took a private poll, according to Meany, and it gave the Congressman a 3 to 1 margin over his Republican opponent --but showed Richard Nixon a 2 to 1 favorite over McGovern.

"So we don't buy the idea that the Presidential candidate, whoever he may be, is going to automatically carry his party with him into the House and Senate," says Meany.

If Meany's strategy succeeds, labor will continue to dominate the Congress and decide, for example, what happens to the expiring Economic Stabilization Act, which gives the President the power to impose wage and price controls, as well as any other proposed socio -economic and labor legislation.

If labor has a "friendly" Congress, then whoever is President will have to bargain with "the movement."

And if the Congressmen of the marginal districts are elected with labor's help, then it will be labor which controls the Democratic party, should Sen. McGovern lose, and not the young people, or the "Galbraiths" (Meany's bete noire), or the intellectual elite.

And then the Ted Kennedy advance tryouts of these past few weeks will have been the advance runs for 1976, many a Meany labor leader, looking homeward politically, is saying.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON —Congress has just passed legislation extending the federal school lunch program, but not without slipping in a clause that will help create a bonanza for vending machine companies.

Neither the House nor Senate had originally wanted to give the vending machine interests such a big break. But when the legislation was sent to a conference committee to iron out differences between the House and Senate versions of the bill, a funny thing happened.

Rep. Roman Pucinski, the likable Daley Democrat from Chicago who is running for the Senate this year, suddenly developed a passionate concern that the truck drivers who deliver soda pop might lose jobs if the machines were not allowed in school cafeterias and lunchrooms.

In the past, the Agriculture Department has not allowed vending machines in school refectories where free federal lunches are served. The Department felt that vending machines normally dispense soda pop and candy, which would work against the purposes of the free lunch program. This is to provide nutritious food.

The House bill ordered the Argiculture Department to permit vending machines which sold "nutritious foods" such as apples and dairy products. The Senate bill allowed vending machines only in senior high schools.

Pucinski led the battle for the vending machines inside the Senate -House conference committee. A bill was reported out which placed no restrictions whatever on the vending machines, despite the fact that dentists and dieticians across the country had opposed the machines from the start.

Although Pucinski was not alone in his support of stripping the Agriculture Department of its power to regulate the machines, he cast the swing vote that gave the soda pop and candy bar people a majority of the House conferees.

Pucinski told us he was contacted about six weeks ago about the bill by Ray Schoessling, a Teamsters Union official from Chicago, who told him "about the effect on a large number of truck drivers who deliver these school lunches."

"If you eliminate these beverages such as coke," Pucinski said he was told, "you're going to eliminate jobs."

Pucinski insisted that the Teamsters' pleas were not the only reason for his concern. He said he had long felt that school cafeterias and lunchrooms should be made more appealing to students.

"The Agriculture Department could have barred Cokes and Pepsi and Seven -up," he said. "If you're going to bar Coke, they're going to go the candy store and they're going to get pot."

Pucinski conceded, however, that the Teamsters have "been my friends for a long, long time." They had always contributed to his campaigns, he said, including this one.

— HARDSHIP SAFARIS —

With maximum fanfare, Interior Secretary Rogers Morton announced last February that eight large cats were being added to the list of endangered species.

This meant that no one could bring the skins of the animals --including tigers, leopards, cheetahs and jaguars --into this country except in cases of "undue economic hardship."

Nevertheless, sport hunters have been allowed to continue killing endangered cats and to import their pelts into this country as "trophies." One Hollywood woman was even allowed to bring home a leopard skin after it has been converted into a flashy coat by a London furrier.

We asked the Interior Department why it was still allowing the importations of the skins. An exception had been made, we were told, for those who had signed up for safaris prior to Morton's announcement.

Yet the law allows exceptions to be made only in cases of economic hardship. How, we asked, can a safari for some rich sportsman qualify as a hardship case?

"I can't explain it," acknowledged an Interior spokesman.

Footnote: The Fund for Animals, an organization devoted to saving endangered wildlife, says the Interior Department, at least, resisted an effort by Maurice Stans, the Nixon fund -raiser and big -game hunter, to get a permit for one of his friends who wanted to kill and import a tiger that had been on the endangered list.

— SHRIVER'S FAMILY —

Everyone knows the Kennedy family is rich. When Eunice Kennedy Shriver and four of her five children flew back to Washington from the family compound at Hyannis Port, Mass., the other day, however, they were all wedged into the tourist cabin.

The stewardesses and other passengers gave no sign that they recognized the wife and children of the Democratic vice presidential nominee. Mrs. Shriver was typically dissheveled, her hair in her eyes and a pencil protruding from behind one ear. One of her shoes even had a missing toe ornament.

Mrs. Shriver did her best to work on a messy pile of campaign material at the same time she was keeping order between her two youngest sons, Mark and Anthony.

At one point, Anthony asked: "Can't Daddy drive us to school?"

"No," replied his teen -aged sister Maria, "Daddy can't drive you to school."

"Yeah," chimed in Mark, "Daddy won't be there."

Pair Escape

POTOSI -- Two men escaped during the weekend from Washington County jail and were captured Sunday night.

Authorities said Richard Helms Jr., 22, and William Griffin, 26, escaped after making a hole in the roof.

Helms was being held on murder charges in connection with the death of his father, and Griffin faces forgery charges.

Law officials said the two offered no resistance when they were captured.

Q—What flower is shunned by bees?

A—The English hawthorn, because of its peculiar odor.

Q—Do holly trees have sex distinction?

A—Yes. The red berries grow only on a female.

Pilots Released In Hanoi Ceremony

HANOI (AP) — Three American pilots shot down during bomb raids over North Vietnam have been released from captivity at a ceremony organized by the North Vietnamese Army and attended by relatives and U.S. peace activists who had journeyed to Hanoi.

They are Navy Lt. Norris Charles, 27, whose wife Olga, had flown out from San Diego, Calif.; Navy Lt. Markham Gartley, 28, whose mother, Minnie Lee Gartley, came from Dunedin, Fla.; and Air Force Maj. Edward Elias, 34, of Valdosta, Ga.

Overjoyed at their new freedom, the three fliers were neatappearing in new civilian clothing provided them for Sunday's 40-minute ceremony, a unique affair in the annals of warfare.

Each pilot made a statement into microphones before the official release, held before Vietnamese and European television cameramen in a building of the Peoples Army.

Olga Charles, 27, who had had her hair washed and set in a downtown Hanoi beauty shop in anticipation of the ceremony, fought through the throng of cameramen and technicians for an emotional embrace with her husband.

Minnie Lee Gartley joyfully put her arms around her Navy pilot son and said, "He's even better looking than I remembered." Mrs. Gartley for the past four years has actively picketed Congress and the White House for an end to the war.

Elias, who until Saturday had expected his wife or father to come to Hanoi, said in a statement before the microphones, "I have been told that for various reasons they could not make it, but I will be seeing them soon."

Elias' father, Barney, a housing consultant, said in Jacksonville, Ill., he, his wife and daughter-in-law had decided it was "not in the best interest of all the POWs" for them to make the trip. He also said peace activists Cora Weiss and Dave Dellinger, who arranged the release and were at the Hanoi ceremony, had assured the Elias family the major's release would not be jeopardized by their not attending.

Charles, Gartley and Elias were the first American prisoners released by Hanoi since 1969. The U.S. Defense Department prior to Sunday listed 539 Americans known to be captured and held prisoner in Southeast Asia and more than 1,000 missing.

Following the ceremony, there was a banquet at the Hoa Binh Hotel.

Mrs. Weiss made a toast in sweet Vietnamese cordial. Then raising a glass of scotch provided by a newsman, Charles said, "I want to make a toast to the good people of America who brought this about."

In his formal statement before the microphones, Charles said, "First, I would like to express my appreciation for my release to my family. Secondly, I would like to thank the Vietnamese people for the humane treatment and generosity they have shown me. Finally, I would like to say that I am a happy man but I cannot truly be happy until this war is terminated."

Elias said at the formal ceremony, "I sincerely hope and pray that this act of release will be a great step to the end of the war and for the future release of all POWs both here and in the South."

Gartley, who was shot down more than four years ago, said, "News of this release came as a complete surprise to me. I feel this is a unique and very emotional situation. I would like to take this opportunity to thank the people and government of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam and attendant camp authorities for the kindnesses they have shown me since my capture."

Freedom for American POWs has been a major political issue between supporters and opponents of U.S. policy in Indochina. President Nixon has set release of the prisoners as a prerequisite for settlement of the conflict. Peace activists argue that the fate of the prisoners remains in jeopardy as long as the United States bombs North Vietnam.

The freed pilots and the visiting Americans will remain in Hanoi several days, then start home later this week.

Between their arrival Saturday and the ceremony Sunday the Americans were given a tour of destruction in Hanoi's suburbs which North Vietnamese guides said was caused by U.S. bomb raids earlier this year. Mrs. Charles and Mrs. Gartley were told their loved ones had been given the same tour after being brought out of their prison camps.

Before the ceremony, the American women had their hair and nails done in a Hanoi beauty parlor. Olga Charles' hair was only half dry when an air raid alert some everyone down to the basement bunker.

No bombs or shooting were heard and no planes came over the city.

Mrs. Gartley said the sights brought home to her "the horrors of war that we are protected from in America—it is more than our feelings and consciousness can absorb ... We thought we were prepared for what we had to see, but we were not."

Israelis End Raid In Lebanon

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli soldiers ended a 32hour search-and-destroy mission against Arab guerrillas inside Lebanon and then returned home to begin Yom Kippur, the holiest of Jewish holidays.

Lt. Gen David Elazar, Israel's chief of staff, said the mission ending Sunday night was a complete success and his forces destroyed 150 guerrilla houses and bunkers while killing about 60 terrorists and taking several prisoners.

Tel Aviv said three Israelis were killed and six wounded, while a Lebanese army communique claimed the Israelis lost 18 dead on Saturday, the first day of the operation. The communique also said eight Lebanese soldiers were killed, 12 wounded and 20 missing.

The Israelis said they searched 16 Arab villages during the operation and air force jets bombed and rocketed eight guerriila encampments and two headquarters complexes.

The raids were a reprisal for the killing of 11 Israeli Olympic team members at Munich and guerrilla raids in recent weeks across the Lebanese border, which have resulted in killing of at least three soldiers.

"I can assure you we will pursue and root out the terrorists wherever they may be," Prime Minister Golda Meir declared in a radio speech at the beginning of Yom Kippur.

While claiming over-all success, Israel said the unexpected resistance from regular Lebanese army units was the strongest defense they have put up since the 1967 Mideast war.

"We are not fighting the Lebanese army," an Israeli commander told his troops before they entered Lebanon, according to a dispatch from newsmen with the troops.

Nevertheless, seven miles inside Lebanon, after passing up one Lebanese army check point which offered no resistance, Israelis in armoured cars and tanks came under recoilless rifle fire.

At least six Lebanese army vehicles were damaged or destroyed along one road near Beit Yahoun, Associated Press correspondent Harry Dunphy reported after a tour of the area.

Israel did not disclose the number of its troops involved in the operation, but Dunphy said as many as 40 tanks and armored personnel carriers rolled across Lebanon's hills at one entry point, indicating perhaps 100 vehicles were involved in the entire operation.

"About 80 to 100 Israelis came in early Saturday morning, stayed through the night and began to leave about 3 o'clock," a villager in Juwayya, where two buildings were blown up by the Israelis, said. "The three persons who were killed here were innocent. They weren't involved in politics. Just farmers."

The troops spent Saturday night in Lebanon and returned to Israel Sunday. But they had to make one final stop at a Lebanese gas station where some of the vehicles refilled their tanks. Others were towed across the border with their gas tanks empty.

Many of the soldiers returned to Israel just in time to celebrate Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement. The state radio shut down for 27 hours, traffic nearly halted at sundown Sunday and many cities looked like ghost towns. Airline flights also were canceled.

The Israeli incursions prompted the Lebanese government to declare a state of emergency and censorship was ordered on all news dispatches sent out of the country.

Al Fatah guerrillas in Syria claimed the Lebanese government ordered all the guerrillas to leave inhabited areas and to stop circulating in uniforms and with arms. But Premier Saeb Salam denied his government had given the guerrillas any sort of ultimatum restricting their actions.

Lebanon and the guerrillas worked out an agreement in 1970 giving them freedom to operate from the mountainous southern areas near Israel.

In Cairo, the authoritative newspaper Al Ahram proposed an Arab summit in Beirut to deal with the Israeli raids. The paper's editor, Mohamed Hassanein Heikal, a confidant of President Anwar Sadat of Egypt, expressed shock at the seeming indifference on the part of Arabs to the Israeli action.

In Moscow, Tass said the Soviet government branded the raids "a dangerous escalation of aggression" that "creates a danger to peace and security."

The United Nations General Assembly convenes Tuesday and the Middle East will be one of the major items on its agenda, with particular emphasis on combating terrorism and the Palestinian refugees.

Secretary General Kurt Waldheim has released a report promising to keep up efforts to work for a Middle East peace. The report detailed the recent activities of Swedish Ambassador Gunnar Jarring, for almost five years the secretary-general's special representative to work on a settlement to the Arab-Israeli dispute.

"In spite of our continued efforts," Waldheim wrote, "it has not been possible to make any substantial progress. Despite this situation, we shall continue our efforts."

Jarring, Stockholm's ambassador to Moscow, is expected in New York soon where he can discuss the Mideast with key foreign ministers on hand for opening of the General Assembly.

Ulett Resigns As Director Of Mental Health

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Dr. George A. Ulett has resigned as director of the state Mental Health Division to go back to psychiatric teaching and research.

David Skeer, chairman of the commission, called Ulett's tenure "a decade of progress" and expressed regret at losing him.

Skeer cited many expansions of the mental health program under Ulett. Many of them made it a period of controversy in the legislature.

Currently, Ulett is on leave to study schizophrenia in children in Denmark. He has been back in Missouri for three weeks while Dr. Harold P. Robb, the acting director, was on vacation.

Ann Landers

Allergy Breaks Up Romance

Dear Ann Landers: I have a ridiculous problem and I am plenty disgusted with myself. I can't talk to my parents because I'm too ashamed. You are the only one I can turn to.

I am male, 16 years old, and as you will soon discover, I'm a rotten kid. I have a double hernia caused by masturbation. I can't take a chance of receiving a letter from you so I am begging you to give me some advice through the column. Please help me. ——No Good

Dear Friend: Where in the world did you get the idea that a hernia can be caused by masturbation? Self manipulation is a normal part of growing up. About 99% of all normal boys and 90% of all normal girls first become aware of their sex drives by experimenting in this manner.

If you are having physical discomfort in the groin I urge you to see a doctor at once. Your ignorance is appalling, son. And what is even more frightening is that there are millions of kids running loose who know as little as you. I suggest that you get my book, "Ann Landers Talks to Teen-Agers About Sex." It is available in paperback for 75c. Write to Fawcett Publications, Inc., Dept. A., Greenwich, Connecticut 06830. The proceeds of this sale will go to retarded children.

Dear Ann Landers: I was interested in your comment to the young woman who lost her boyfriend because he was allergic to her cat. It seems the fellow simply dropped her and she never knew why until a mutual friend inadvertantly mentioned it. Your reply hinted you didn.t believe it was the real reason. It's O.K. to seek hidden motives, Ann, but when you said, "Love overcomes all allergies," I decided to straighten you out. LOVE does NOT overcome all allergies and I am living proof.

I had to break my engagement to a wonderful man because I was allergic to his perspiration. He did not perspire profusely, just the normal amount, but that's all it took to make me break out with giant hives. I should tell you that the perspiring occurred mostly during our romantic interludes. The cause for my allergy was established by a specialist who pinpointed the trouble after weeks of laboratory tests.

That was ten years ago and I'm still unmarried but I'm NOT unhappy. Prayer has filled the place in my life that I mistakenly believed had to be filled by a man. ——Eagle Rock, Alabama

Dear Rock: Some allergies can be a friend. You didn't really want to marry that man. I suspect your feelings of guilt about the sexual aspects soured the relationship. The hives saved you from what might have been a disastrous marriage. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: Thank you for providing a new definition of "grace under pressure." When I read that you were sure it meant Her Serenne Highness Princess Grace of Monoco wearing her 1952 girdle I nearly fell out of my chair. You make the newspaper for me, Dimples. Sometimes I get my only laugh of the day from your column. Don't ever change. ---An admirer in New York

Dear Ad: I couldn't if I wanted to. Thanks for the day-brightener.

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell me what could happen to me if I let a friend of mine who is a hairdresser borrow my cosmetologist license on the one day of the year when he gets word that the State Inspector is coming around. I know I shouldn't do it, but if you will tell me what might happen to me I'll be able to say "No" and mean it. Much obliged. ---Ohio Weakling

Dear O: The hairdresser who "lends" his license to a friend runs the risk of losing it. Each case is reviewed by a local Beauty Culture Committee. This committee decides whether the offender should be put on probation or have his license revoked permanently.

What's prudish? What's O.K.? If you aren't sure, you need some help. It's available in the booklet: "Necking and Petting --What Are the Limits?" Mail your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper, enclosing 50c in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Millionaire H.L. Hunt Believes In Creeping

DALLAS (AP) — H. L. Hunt, one of the world's richest men, popped a date into his mouth and smiled around it. "I'm a crank about creeping," he said.

Creeping?

"You get down on all fours and walk on your hands and knees," the 83-year-old health fan explained. He promptly dropped down to the floor of his antique dining room to demonstrate.

"You see, you look at your little finger of each hand as you walk the hand forward and that turns your head side to side. It's natural exercise, like when you were an ape," he said.

He chuckled and his wife, Ruth, looked concerned. Hunt was creeping around the breakfast table so fast the photographer couldn't focus on him. He didn't even put on his creeping knee pads, just dropped to the floor in his blue pin stripe suit.

"She doesn't creep," Hunt said of his wife when he returned to his breakfast plate. He munched grapes, pecans, dates and an apricot, and drank fruit juices and bouillon.

"Creeping is probably the second best exercise in the world next to swimming. It's perfect," Hunt said.

"I creep about two to three minutes a day, several times a day," he explained. He also has yoga lessons twice a week and maintains a strict health food regimen of pure foods.

"Ya-hoo," he called and an assistant came in with a date for everyone at the table. Hunt, a leading oil producer and food processing magnate, munched a pecan himself and said, "I used to be the world's number one soft shell pecan grower. I suppose I still am. I eat them instead of meat."

An aid, or his wife, gives Hunt an assist from chairs since he hurt his back in a bathtub fall several years ago. It was then he took up yoga to strengthen his back musles. Now he can walk without his back harness.

He works six days a week, staying active from 7 a.m. to 10:30 p.m.

At 83, Hunt tends to ramble from talking about health food interests: his sons, his famous checker playing ability, his long crusade against Communism, his dog Muffin ("He can understand nearly everything you say to him.").

He spoke slowly, deliberately. Sometimes he would pause to think, to run his hand over his thin white hair. Then his blue eyes twinkled and he said, "I have lots of money and so they call me the "Billionaire Health Cran.' Heh, heh, heh.

"I'll be 84 February 17th. The Soviets have a picture I've seen of a man they say is 167. I think I'll manage to live to as ripe an age as their man."

And then he took his wife's arm and headed off to work.

Book Provides Women With New Roll Models

NEW YORK (AP) — Joyce Teitz could have written about herself.

After all, she's the person ification of a liberated woman — 28-years-old, the graduate of Harvard law school who successfuly coordinated the Coalition Against the SST in Washington, D.C.

But when Miss Teitz wanted to offer models of liberated women in book form, she chose to write about others — a broadcast journalist, lawyer, physician, oceanographer, physicist, company president, campaign committee chairman, economist, foreign service officer, systems analyst and writer. The result is, "What's a Nice Girl Like You Doing in a Place Like This?"

Here for a brief visit, Miss Teitz explained why she wrote her book. "When I started working, I found other working women who were admirable, and who had satisfying personal lives, but who weren't emasculating, as liberated women were said to be. I thought then how helpful it would have been to have had models like that earlier. So one point was to provide role models for women, and another was, indirectly, to congratulate women who have worked all along.

"I felt it was important to go step by step," she continues. "I wanted a personal approach to show the women were real people."

The liberated women Miss Teitz wrote about do not know each other. Eight are married, six have children and only two are actively involved in the feminist movement. Their lives are different, but according to Miss Teitz, who spent three months interviewing her subjects, they share several qualities.

Job's Daughters Meet

Job's Daughters, Bethel No. 27 held their first meeting Saturday at 6 p.m. in the Masonic Temple. Miss Leslie Cox, junior custodian, was installed by the honored queen, Marsha Dement.

Mrs. Ruth Adkisson, guardian of Bethel 61, of Charleston, installed the executive council: guardian, Mrs. Edith Grimes; associate guardian Acquilla Grimes; and secretary, Miss Lucille Mount.

The associate council was also installed: director of sociability, Mrs. Carroll McAfee, and director of finance, Charles Jack Grimes. Miss Becky McCloskey, honored queen, Bethel 61 of Charleston was installing secretary.

A parent-planning board has been formed and it met for its first meeting Saturday night. The board will meet again Sept. 23 at 5 p.m. Parents of the Job's Daughters are invited to attend.

Stores Make It Easier To Decorate

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

It is getting easier to be your own decorator as more manufacturers and stores lend a hand with do-it-yourself pamphlets and decorating advice.

Now another assist is available, with a decorating course to be given in the fall at more than 200 Sears stores. Eight lessons and a textbook compiled by top-notch professionals are expected to give a homemaker confidence to try her hand at some home projects, and to equip her with the knowledge to collaborate with a decorator, if that is what she wants. Each store will use decorating experts from its area to teach the home decorating course.

The most puzzling aspects of decorating — color, lighting, accessories, furniture styles and their origins — are explained in a basic way.

One of the best known experts in the field of textiles, Dorothy Liebes, provides the chapter on color. Her course explains that color is a psychological force — for example, sensations in response to color make us happier on a bright, sunny day when light and color vibrations lift our spirits.

In choosing a palette (she prefers to select from light, dark, bright colors) a logical pattern should be followed. The basic color scheme might evolve from existing climatic and regional conditions, and be built around possessions and the family pattern of living. Colors should be suited to the woman of the house and pleasing to her husband in Miss Liebes opinion.

Good lighting must focus on artificial light, lighting innovator Robert Sonneman emphasizes in his lesson on lighting. Glare must be avoided because "as glare increases, the ability to see decreases."

In addition to pointers on quality, color and intensity of light and color and its reflections, charts illustrate the reflective value of colors. Sonneman also explains:

... Human flesh tones are more flattering in incandescent light, the red end of the spectrum ... people often sacrifice lighting function for what they feel is aesthetic appeal.

... There is a proper way to light each area of the home.

... Colors of walls and ceiling affect the level of illumination in a room — white walls reflect about 75 per cent of available light; dark brown or black might reflect 5 to 15 per cent. Walls serve best when they are in the 35 to 60 per cent range.

... Lighting used for makeup should be as color true and close to sunlight as possible ... in the bedroom it should be soft indirect illumination.

Planning accessories gives one a real chance for personal liberation in home decorating. the textbook points out in a lesson from Lawrence Peabody, well-known designer of furniture and accessories. Accessories can be used to control space in creating a harmonious effect. Unity of color can help to achieve it.

Trends Picked A Year In Advance By Fashion Pro

NEW YORK (AP) — Virginia Sorem's job is to publish 12 books a year showing fashions women will want to buy. Sounds easy enough, but there's one hitch — she has to work over a year ahead of time — forecasting fashion trends long before clothes are off the designers' sketch pads, much less in the stores.

How does she do it? The fashion coordinator, catalog division of JC Penney Co. explains: "I talk to a lot of fashion sources, read a lot of domestic periodicals and go to all the fashion showings. Just looking at people helps. And I'm familiar with the mark-down racks at the stores — what hasn't sold. Fashion makes sense, too. You don't have to be the smartest graduate of Radcliffe to know that certain seasons will bring on certain colors and styles."

Mrs. Sorem, a bright blue-eyed woman, with a trim tailored look, wryly notes that, "there are no erasers in a catalogue," so she has to be sure she knows what she's talking about. She's quick to point out that her work is a team effort, but nevertheless, she's the one who is responsible for the $11 million in paper and $2 million in ink alone that go into those catalogs each year.

The way fashion trends are born has changed in the past 10 years, Mrs. Sorem says. "There used to be a filtering down process," she points out.

"The couture houses in Paris would originate trends that would then find their way across the ocean to New York City and the expensive stores on 57th Street. Eventually, those same looks would end up at the cheaper stores, but it was months after the original had appeared in Europe.

"This started changing a decade ago," she goes on. "People in the United States needed clothes to wear for their active lives. In England, there was an uprising of youth. Fashions started coming from the young people on the streets. As a result, trends today come from all over the world."

According to this fashion expert, today's look has two main ingredients — individuality and a casual manner. "Women don't want to all look alike," Mrs. Sorem says. "Now they can buy separates, put them together and change the look for a job, or for a date."

She attributes this individuality partly to the ill-fated midi skirt. "When designers tried to foist the midi off on women, and found it didn't work, they realized they couldn't make women buy something just to be fashionable. We don't wear our sleeves the same length, so why should women have to wear their skirts the same length?

"The casual look can be misunderstood," she goes on. "It doesn't mean torn sneakers. It can actually mean elegant, and the same care and planning should go into a casual look as it does into a formal one. It does mean a life style that fits what we're doing today, with do's and don'ts replaced by politeness and consideration."

Mrs. Sorem became interested in fashion at an early age. At 14, she was a model in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area where she grew up. She attended the University of Minnesota, but says with a laugh, "I was absolutely uninterested in the whole thing." She married, moved to New York City, had two daughters and stayed at home until the youngest was in school all day.

"All that time, though, I was planning what I was going to do," she says. She worked in commercial photography for eight years before joining Penney in 1962.

Although declining to be specific about her fashion forecasts — "That would be giving information away to the competition" — Mrs. Sorem is willing to talk in general terms about future fashion trends:

"There has been a marked trend towards menswear fabrics for years," she says. "Men have always had a neat, tailored look, so women have taken what is attractive about that style. You didn't have to be very smart to know that meant a layered look, with chunky-heeled shoes.

"Now the signs are out for a softer look, in two piece outfits and pants. I do think dresses will make a comeback, like the short cocktail dress. In 1973 there is going to be a different look for shoes and sleeves. And women will wear their shirts open at the collar — with just a hint of jewelry showing."

Infant's Cry Provides Help In Diagnosis

NEW YORK (AP) — Does your new baby seem to cry too often? — or does he strain to cry but make very little sound?

A pediatrician specializing in congenital disorders believes an infant's cry can provide valuable help in diagnosing problems such as cretinism, central nervous system damage and congenital heart disease — and has authored a new cassette tape program to train other pediatricians in this method.

"So many disorders result in a characteristic cry — or a crying impairment — that physicians examining an infant should make him cry at some point in the examination, if he doesn't do so spontaneously," explains Dr. Murray Feingold, director of the Center for Genetic Counseling and Birth Defect Evaluation at the Boston Floating Hospital for Infants and Children.

"The sound of an infant's cry offers audible confirmation of many rather rare disorders most practicing pediatricians don't see very often," says Feingold. "Most of these disorders are some form of mental retardation — such as cri du chat ('cry of the cat'), hypothyroidism, etc. Other ones may indicate some larynx deformity.

"The examining physician should observe the quality of an infant's cry, the effort involved in crying and the ease with which the infant can be made to cry," Feingold said.

"The pitch of a normal infant's cry isn't screechy," he elaborated. "Intensity varies as the baby inhales, cries, and then trails off as the baby runs out of breath. When he's angry or upset the volume tends to be louder than when he's merely uncomfortable."

Contrasting with normal infant cries, the cries of infants with central nervous system damage have almost a "spine-chilling" quality, Feingold observes.

"Children with central nervous system damage usually cry with a high-pitched, shrill, shrieky sound," he said. "The intensity may not be loud — the distinguishing characteristic is the pitch."

Babies suffering from hypothyroidism (cretinism) seldom cry spontaneously, and may be difficult to make cry — and when they do, the sound is generally hoarse, low intensity and low pitched.

"If the parent says the baby doesn't cry often, snap the bottom of its foot," Feingold counsels pediatricians in his Medcom self-teaching tape.

According to Feingold, variations in the physical effort of a baby to cry should be noted and included in the diagnosis, as well as the audible qualities of the cry itself.

"First of all, the physician should discuss the baby's crying habits with the parent," he said.

"How often does he cry — too often? — not as often as normal? And how hard is it to make the baby cry? These are all very subjective questions, of course. But they are factors which should be included as a routine part of an infant examination."

If your child has some object in his throat and is choking, turn him upside down, hold him by the legs or ankles and slap his back vigorously.

Other guests were his grandmothers, Mrs. Herbert Edwards and Mrs. Eula Fay Stroud, and his great-grandmother, Hallie Baty.

Nun Drops Out Finds It Hard

LONDON (AP) — When a nun drops out, where can she land?

That was the question Patricia Marshall asked herself after leaving the convent of the Good Shepherd Sisters, an order dedicated to the rehabilitation of delinquent girls.

The answer, she discovered, was often no answer — in a lonely one-room apartment, a clockwork job, an emotional desert.

Today Patricia Marshall — now Mrs. Patricia Worden, wife of a management consultant — is the first administrative head of New Bearings, an official counseling organization formed last year for nuns and priests leaving the Roman Catholic church.

For Mrs. Worden, the return to lay life in 1965 after five cloistered years was "not too bad."

"I was only 26 and my parents, both Catholics, were very helpful," she says. "I took it in my stride, I think. Also I had some training — a psychology degree from Cork University and personnel experience in industry."

Others, however, have found a new life more difficult.

New Bearings, run by a 10-member committee including one bishop and three university lecturers, has received some 30 appeals for help already this year. And this, Mrs. Worden stresses, constitutes only a small proportion of the total number of men and women leaving their orders.

Of these 30, most were men.

"Sisters on the whole tend to be a bit more practical about things," Mrs. Worden says. "They usually have qualifications of some sort and don't find the same job problems as men.

"Nor are they so prone to loneliness. They are not like priests who have been set apart, put on a pedestal. Convent life is very busy — in fact there is often a feeling of wanting to be by oneself, to be lonely."

Reasons for quitting the church are numerous, she says. Some want to marry. Some feel hamstrung by the institutional church. Others feel it has progressed too far too quickly.

The hardest people to fit, according to Mrs. Worden, are the older ones. Half a lifetime of poverty, chastity and obedience is no ticket to success in a competitive consumer society.

Younger men can be trained for social work and teaching, or may enter industry or government. Older men are less marketable, less hopeful.

"Perhaps there isn't sufficient motivation to undertake a three-year training course when you're 55," says Mrs. Worden. "Generally they are not ambitious. They're just looking for something steady and regular — some do clerical work, even dishwashing."

Not all applicants to New Bearings are British. Many letters come from countries like Ireland, Spain and Italy.

New Bearings has no measure of its success. It has no yardstick to go by, no statistics to consider. It refers everyone somewhere, but is seldom told where — if — they land.

"But," says Mrs. Worden, who is awaiting the birth of her second child, "I am always on the end of the telephone wire if anyone needs help."

"Some stretch pants have no other choice."

Date For State 4-H Day Announced

COLUMBIA — High school youths from all over the state will converge on Columbia and University of Missouri April 16 for the 26th State 4-H Day competition.

Since 1946, the contest has been held on the university campus. This year's events will begin at 9:30 a.m. April 16, and end around 4 p.m.

The youths, ranging in age from 14 to 19, will compete for top awards in seven categories. The contests are a culmination of innovative and creative work that demonstrates individual accomplishments in one of the seven areas. They enter their work in dress revue, public speaking for boys, public speaking for girls, skilled operators' tractor event, dairy judging, livestock judging, meat judging and poultry judging.

State winners generally have completed at least three years in 4-H. Their projects may have taken from one year to complete to maintaining a three-year-record in the project which relates to the program entered.

Prizes for the winners range from $50 U.S. savings bonds on the state level to competing in national competition in Chicago where they might win a $700 scholarship.

80-Year-Old Man Participates In Swimming Contest

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP) — A crowd of 3,000 rooted for the last finisher is the 42nd annual one-mile rough-water ocean swim.

He was Lionel Pedley, who finished in 213th place Sunday, 59 minutes and 13 seconds behind the winning time of 21 minutes, 53 seconds.

"But so what," a spectator commented. "At his age he was a winner when he stepped into the water."

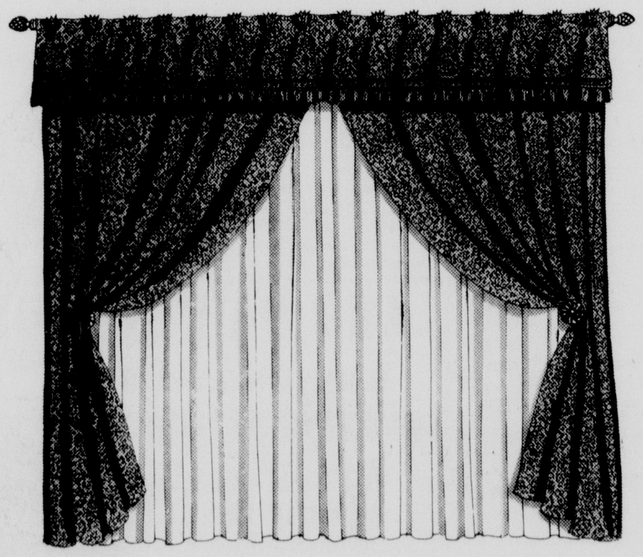

Pedley, a retired civil engineer, is 80.

Pedley said later it was his second try at the race. He finished fifth in 1961. "But I was younger then, you understand," he said.

SeMo Loses , 7-6

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Good Neighbor Doctrine may have lost a few followers among Missouri small college football teams over the weekend.

Missouri teams lost 7 of 11 games against out-of-state opposition. The Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association was particularly hard hit, falling victim to foes from Arkansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Kansas.

In fact, MIAA clubs lost five of six games while league-leader Northeast was idle. Lincoln was the lone winner, posting a 15-6 triumph over Langston, Okla., in its opener.

State College of Arkansas tapped Central, 21-14; Nebraska-Omaha outran Northwest, 45-18; Central State of Edmond, Okla., rolled to a 39-18 conquest of Southwest, and MU-Rolla fell 21-7 victim to Pittsburg State, Kan. Southeast dropped a 7-6 decision to independent Missouri Southern.

On the bright side, independent Washington University of St. Louis bowed in with a 30-7 lashing of University of the South, from Sewanee, Tenn.; William Jewell of the Heart of America Conference posted a 17-12 conquest of Simpson, Iowa, and Missouri Valley of the HOA nudged Iowa Wesleyan, 13-6.

Independent Missouri Southern joined Northeast as the only clubs in the state with 2-0 records by edging Southeast.

In other games involving independents, Washburn, Kan., crushed Western 58-3, and Culver-Stockton was a 28-26 loser to Central Methodist.

In the HOA, Peru State, Neb., joined the rude host set by tumbling Tarkio, 15-13.

William Jewell, posting its second straight triumph after a season-opening loss, got a oneman show from sophomore Weader Millentree. He scored all fht eCardinal points on an 80-yard pass from Steve Burton, a 52-yard TD run, a 26yard field goal and two conversions.

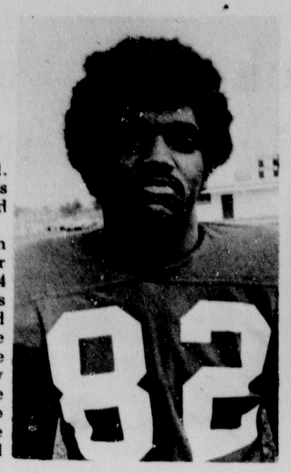

Central Methodist jarred Culver-Stockton when senior quarterback Jim Stamos completed his third touchdown pass 15 seconds from the end. Stamos passed for 345 yards as the Eagles evened their record at 1-1.

Junior tailback Jim Albin had another big game for Northwest, rushing for 134 yards and two touchdowns despite missing the third quarter with an injury. But he couldn't match the five-touchdown outburst by Nebraska-Omaha's Charlie McWhorter, who gobbled up 139 infantry yards and got three of his TDs in the decisive final quarter.

Tony Chandler sparked Missouri Valley, rushing for 145 yards in 22 carries and scoring both Viking touchdowns, on runs of 10 and 20 yards.

Lincoln let Langston score first, then came back with James Lang's 47-yard touchdown strike to Phil Doolin and a 60-yard punt return by Willie Burks. A Langston end-around attempt was halted in the end zone for a safety.

It's perfectly safe to put hot things, right off the range, into the refrigerator.

Field Goal Dooms Charleston Hopes

PERRYVILLE -- Charles Vogel booted a 33-yard field goal with a minute and 47 seconds remaining to give the St Vincent Indians a 3-0 victory over Charleston in a Southeast Missouri high school football game played Saturday afternoon.

Charleston displayed a tenacious defense, three times holding the Indians away from the goal line after plunging inside the 10- yard stripe.

Coach Joe Black's Bluejays threatened the Tribe's goal twice from inside the 10, but couldn't move the host's big defense and twice had big gainers called back because of penalties.

The Bluejays outrushed their opponents, 122-77, but it would likely have been another story had it not been for a big 64- yard play in the opening quarter.

Charleston lost its season- opening contest against Hayti 36-21. The Bluejays visit Sikeston Friday night to encounter the arch- rival Bulldogs in a Northern Division league game.

CHARLESTON'S Keith Quertermous (11) dives for an interception against the St. Vincent Indians at Perryville Saturday afternoon after the pass eluded Eddie Siegmund (5). The Tribe won the game, 3-0, and dropped CHS to an 0-2 record for the season. The Bluejays visit Sikeston Friday.

Cards Prolong Pirates' Clincher

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Is Pittsburgh Manager Bill Virdon at all worried about winning the pennant, especially after dropping three straight to the Cardinals.

"I'm certainly not alarmed, not when we have 28 games in which to pick up three victories or have the Cubs lose three," he said Sunday, after the Pirates 5-4 loss to St. Louis.

While Pittsburgh zeros in on its third straight pennant, Roberto Clemente is nearing the 3,000 hit goal. He's only ten away. Might he reach his goal before the Pirates clinch the flag?

"I'd hate to wait that long," Virdon said. Although he might get those ten in a hurry."

Virdon explained the three losses philosophically, noting the Pirates had just beaten the Cubs three straight. "These things often happen after you've had a big series."

Ted Sizemore looped a tworun singled in the sixth inning to break a 3-3 tie and enable pitcher Reggie Cleveland to bring his record to 14-14. Cleveland had lost 9 of his last 10 starts.

The Cards scored twice in the first inning, one run scoring on a fly out and another batted in by Ted Simmons. Simmons doubled home another run in the third.

Pittsburgh scored two in the sixth to tie the game, on a triple to center by Manny Sanguillen with Willie Stargell and Rich Hebner aboard.

Sizemore's hit, to send the Cards two ahead, came after Bernie Carbo beat out an infield hit, Ken Reitz did the same, and Lou Brock walked. Pittsburgh scored its final run in the ninth when Al Oliver scored on a wild pitch by Diego Segui, who relieved for Cleveland.

The loser was Bob Miller (52) who replaced starter Bob Johnson.

IOWA CITY, Iowa AP —The University of Iowa football squad has lost the services of speedy tailback Craig Johnson for the remainder of the season.

Johnson suffered a shoulder separation in Saturday's 21 -0 loss to Ohio State.

Team Physician, Dr. Harley Feldick, said Sunday that Johnson would have to undergo surgery Monday.

Johnson, a senior, rushed for only 14 yards before being injured.

DRUMMONDVILLE, Que. AP —The Atlanta Flames, one of two new National Hockery League franchises this season, defeated the other newcomer, the New York Islanders, 4 —1 in an exhibition contest Sunday.

USC Gains 986 Yards

"They are ranked No. 1 and they played like a No. 1 team."

So said Oregon State's Dee Andros after powerful Southern California completed its first week as college football's top -rated team with a 51 -6 rout Saturday night, outgaining the Beavers 670 yards -354 rushing, 316 passing -to 92 and recovering five of the losers' seven fumbles.

And despite the score, the Trojans didn't roll it up.

"It was just a matter of Oregon State being a young team," said USC's John McKay. "We just had too many advantages. We suited up 50 players and everybody played, even some of the reserves in the second quarter."

By halftime, Southern Cal had a 20 -6 lead, with Red McNeill scoring all three touchdown on runs of 14, two and five yards. McNeill gained 117 yards while quarterback Mike Rae completed 12 of 19 passes for 248 yards and one score and second -stringer Pat Haden scored one TD and passed for another.

Second -ranked Colorado kept pace with Southern Cal by trouncing Cincinnati 56 -14 while third -rated Ohio State and No. 4 Oklahoma opened their seasons with shutout triumphs - 21 -0 over Iowa and 49 -0 over Utah State, respectively.

Alabama, rated fifth, was idle while No. 7 Tennessee out -lasted No. 6 Penn State 28 -21 in the only match -up of Top Ten teams. UCLA, No. 8, held off Pitt 38 -28, ninth -rated Louisiana State debuted with a 31 -13 victory over Pacific and Nebraska's defending national champions, who skidded from first to 10th after losing to UCLA a week ago, started the long road back with a 37 -7 whomping of Texas A&M.

Colorado broke Ken Johnson, Charlie Davis, and Bo Matthews loose for 314 of its 473 rushing yards and four of its eight touchdowns against Cincinnati.

Ohio State combined strong running by fullbacks Randy Keith 81 yards and Champ Henson 79 yards and a defense that kept Iowa off the scoreboard as Woody Hayes began his 22nd campaign at the helm of the Buckeyes.

Oklahoma was worried about a successor for Whishbone quarterback Jack Mildren but Dave Robertson got the Sooners rolling against Utah State with a 44 -yard scoring pass to John Carroll and his replacement, freshman Kerry Jackson, was the leading ground -gainer with 109 of Oklahoma's 412 rushing yards. All —American halfback Greg Pruitt scored three times on short runs.

Tennessee got touchdown gallops of 41 and three yards from Haskel Stanback and raced to a 21 —0 halftime lead over Penn State before John Hufnagel rallied the Nittany Lions with a pair of scoring passes. Stanback's third TD, a two -yard run in the final period that capped an 80 -yard drive, put the game out of reach.

UCLA got one touchdown from each member of its starting backfield -short runs by Mark Harmen, James McAlister and Gary Campblee and an 80 -yard scamper by Kermit Johnson -plus a 63 -yard scorind dash by second -string quarterback Rob Scribner in beating Pitt.

Louisiana State, down by 7 —0 in the first minute when Pacific recovered a blocked punt in the end zone, got three touchdowns from Jimmy LeDeux and two scoring passes from Bert Jones and won easily. LeDoux did all his scoring in the first half as LSU rolled up a 24 -7 lead .

Angry Nebraska took it out on Texas A&M with 252 yards rushing and 266 passing as sophomore quarterback Dave Humm scored twice and passes for a third touchdown.

"They were No. 1 in the pre -season polls and they are still among the finest football teams in the country," said Coach Emery Bellard of the losers.

The biggest upset of the day -or was it? —came when Bowling Green stunned 18th ranked Purdue 17 -14 on Don Taylor's 29 -yard field goal in the final period.

"Our kids came into the game believing they could win," said Coach Don Nehlen. "I can't actually think it was an upset under those conditions."

Elsewhere among Second Ten teams, No. 11 Michigan nosed out Northwestern 7 —0 on a 21 -yard pass from Dennis Franklin, the Wolverines' first black quarterback, to Bo Rather: Sonny Sixkiller returned from an ankle injury and threw a 45 -yard touchdown pass to Tom Scott as No. 12 Washington beat Duke 14 -6 and No. 13 Arizona State outlasted Houston 33- 28 with Dan White lefting scoring passes of 55 and 52 yards to Steve Holden and Woody Green gaining 195 on the ground.

Georgia, ranked 16th, struggled past Baylor 24 -14 although the Bears won the statistics with 20 first downs to 12 and 341 yards to 267.

Norris Weese led No. 19 Mississippi past Memphis State 34 -29 by passing for three touchdowns and scoring two and No. 20 Florida state trimmed Miami, Fla. 37 -14 as Gary Huff threw for 329 yards and four TDs.

Rookie Leads Big Red Upset

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tim Van Galder has qualified for the National Football League's pension plan for players.

It could mean a lot larger pension than the one he'd have gotten if he had remained in the Army.

The 28-year-old rookie—by NFL rules—directed the St. Louis Cardinals to a 10-3 upset of the Baltimore Colts Sunday as pro football began its 1972 season.

"Not only was this my first regular season start, it qualified me for the NFL pension," explained Van Galder, who upstaged one of the game's old pros, Johnny Unitas. He spent three years on St. Louis' taxi squad and two years in the Army before getting into a regular season game.

In Sunday's other games, the Miami Dolphins defeated the Kansas City Chiefs 20-10; the Atlanta Falcons bombed the Chicago Bears 37-21; the Green Bay Packers upset the Cleveland Browns 26-10; Cincinnati's Bengals clouted the New England Patriots 31-7; the Los Angeles Rams routed the New Orleans Saints 34-14.

The Detroit Lions whipped the New York Giants 30-16; the New York Jets jolted the Buffalo Bills 41-24; the Pittsburgh Steelers thumped the Oakland Raiders 34-28; the Dallas Cowboys thrashed the Philadelphia Eagles 28-6; the San Francisco 49ers beat the San Diego Chargers 34-3; and the Denver Broncos clipped the Houston Oilers 30-17.

Coach George Allen, who has never lost an opening game, sends his Washington Redskins to Minnesota tonight for a nationally televised game, winding up the first of 14 weekends of NFL action.

Van Galder's statistics from the Cardinal-Colt game weren't very impressive—10 of 15 passes for 110 yards. But he connected with a 71-yard toss to Jacky Smith in the third quarter on a play which led to Donny Anderson's four-yard gamewinning touchdown run.

Baltimore's Unitas threw 36 times, completing 22 for 257 yards. It put Unitas' total passing figures for his 17 seasons as a pro over 22 miles.

"Mistakes, Mistakes," muttered Don McCafferty, the Colt coach. "We made mistakes and the Cardinals didn't."

Now for a quick look at the other games:

Dolphins 20, Chiefs 10: In the celebrated replay of the 1971 Christmas Day double-overtime game, Miami won again.

APPROPRIATIONS COMMITTEE HEMS, HAWS, PASSES EMERGENCY BILL

JEFFERSON CITY -- At one point last week, a reporter in the press room at the State Capitol summed up the activities of the House Appropriations Committee whis way:

"Only God knows what they're going to do."

What they finally did was send a bill to the House calling for appropriations totaling $21.1 million, $2.4 million less than the $23.5 million requested by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, but the reporter's consternation was understandable.

A special session, called by Gov. Hearnes to consider an emergency appropriations bill, had convened on Sept. 6. The bill was assigned to the appropriations committee which, in a surprise move, tabled the measure on the second day of the session.

The committee released the vote on the motion to table, 17-10, but no other information was forthcoming from the closed session.

"I don't think it's fair to the other committee members if I say how I voted or how anyone else voted," said Rep. Guss Salley (R-Warsaw) after the meeting. "We made an agreement not to talk about our actions."

On Sept. 13, after a series of closed sessions and caucuses and two full meetings of the House in which there was no business to transact, the emergency appropriations bill was released. The committee vote was 25-8 with three members absent.

The only reason publicly advanced for the delay was given by the appropriations committee chairman, E.J. (Lucky) Cantreli, who said the legislators were unhappy about being called into special session. The committee members, he said, did not regard the budget requests as truly emergency in nature, and that they could wait until the regular session in January.

Cuts made by the appropriations committee included $800,000 from the governors request for refunding student fee increases at the University of Missouri. The committee originally had trimmed the entire $1.6 million allocated for fee refunds. But after the House Democrats caucused on the measure, the committee met again and voted to restore half of the original cut.

The appropriations committee also lopped off funds earmarked for the director of the revenue department, the comptroller's office and the Department of Corrections.

The state public defender program had almost $400,000 trimmed from Gov. Hearnes $1.02 million request. The appropriations committee recommended that only $628,374 be allocated from the general revenue fund for the public defender system. The remainder of the new allocation must come from local funds and grants from the Law Enforcement Assistance Council.

A new program to provide scholarships for needy students in private and public schools was cut by almost $800,000.

Among the items untouched by the committee were raises for directors of a few state agencies, employes and judges that are above the federal 5.5 per cent wage guidelines and a plan to rebuild the west end of the Capitol at a cost of more than $1 million.

The committee also let stand other University of Missouri appropriations totaling almost $2 million.

Cantrell and House majority leader Richard Rabbitt (D-St. Louis) pleaded for Democrats to unite behind the new bill, but rough sledding was predicted. About 40 amendments were expected to be introduced in the House.

The Prayer

from the Upper Room

The Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us. (John 1:14) PRAYER: Father, we would always be aware of Your presence and remember that You cared about us enough to be at home with us. Thank You for coming to us where we are, not just reaching down to us. We can come to You as we are; through Christ our Savior. Amen.

Registrations Taken For Vo-Tech School

Registrations are now being taken for adult education courses offered by the Cape Girardeau Vocational-Technical School at 301 N. Clark St. in Cape Girardeau. Enrollment may be made by mail, telephone or a visit to the school.

Classes will begin the week of Sept. 25.

Post- high school classes, which meet four nights a week, include: radio and TV, welding, refrigeration and air conditioning and auto mechanics. All post- high school classes are approved for veterans.

Regular adult classes range from general education to occupational skills.

The adult basic education and high school equivalency programs will be offered at no charge. An adult high school diploma program is offered for the first time and is designed for those adults who need only a few credits to finish high school. Credit can be given through examination, courses and other educational experience.

Also, offered for the first time are do- it- yourself courses in French, Spanish, German, shorthand theory and sliderule. Cassette tapes and film loops are used for this individualized instruction.

For additional information, call, write or visit the Vocational- Technical School in Cape Girardeau.

Gas Hike Permanent

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Public Service Commission has made permanent a $602,000 rate hike it had granted earlier on an interim basis to Missouri Natural Gas Co.

The interim rates had been in effect since July, 1970, pending an investigation. The company had requested an increase of $716,500 originally.

The cost and rate of return figures were agreed to Thursday by the utility and PSC staff.

Missouri Natural Gas serves customers in Butler, Iron, Madison, Jefferson, St. Francois and Ste. Genevieve counties.

Textile Workers Like Three Day Work Week

GASTONIA, N. C. (AP) — Lester Cutler, a 51-year-old textile mill owner, is as proud as a new father about a three-day work week he has initiated for his employes. He says he thinks it is "as historical as Ford's $5a-day plan."

Most of the employes at Cutler's Wales Manufacturing Co. are off four days a week, putting in three 12-hour days to earn their full 40-hour pay per week.

Grace Martin, back on the job after a four-day weekend, said: "I was glad to come back. It's unusual for me to miss work that much."

Mrs. Martin runs a knitting machine and says the long day at work does not tire her. There are several short breaks throughout the day and a half hour for lunch.

Another worker, Gloria Bryson, said, "I didn't think I'd feel that good" as she did after her three 12-hour work days.

"If I have to work 40 or 48 hours, this is the best way. I have more time at home," she added.

Cutler says he began thinking about the best way to utilize his plant nearly a year ago, noting that the best utilization of his equipment requires 24-hour operation.

He said he used to have three groups of 30 employes for three eight-hour shifts each work day.

"Now we have 30 working from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Wednesday, another 30 from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. those days, 30 more on two shifts like that Thursday through Saturday — four groups of 30.

"We created more jobs," he said.

He cites what he thinks are its main benefits:

"First in today's mode of life one of the main things people are looking for is time off.

"Second, instead of driving to work five days, now they come three days. There is some savings: less wear and tear on automobiles, less gas.

"Third, some females require babysitters, instead of five days, now only two or three. Their husbands can often keep the children one day.

"If it doesn't work, we can always go back — but I don't think so. I'd have one hell of a problem if we went back.

"I'd be tarred and feathered."

Nixon Strikes At Reruns

LOS ANGELES (AP)—President Nixon has backed a move to cut the number of reruns on prime time television, saying unless networks act voluntarily "we will explore whatever regulatory recommendations are in orddr."

Nixon, in a letter to the Screen Actors Guild released Thursday, said he agrees with SAG complaints that the increasing use of reruns poses an economic threat to the television industry. He promised an investigation into the situation.

"I am convinced that in cutting the amount of original programming the TV networks are failing to serve their own best interests as well as those of the public," the President wrote Guild President John Gavin.

Nixon said he has instructed Clay T. Whitehead, director of the White House Office of Telecommunications Policy, to "thoroughly investigate the problem" with an eye to a voluntary solution by the networks before any "regulatory recommendations" are studied.

Whitehead said Thursday that the "spreading blight" of television reruns could be solved by creation of a fourth commercial television network.

"Creation of a new network may well be the only way to meet the needs of program diversity and audience choice," Whitehead told the San Francisco chapter of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences.

"From what I've seen already, this will be a good profit year in the TV industry," Whitehead said. "I've also heard that the Hollywood studios are on the ropes — that at any one time there are many craft unions with 50 per cent to 75 per cent of their members out of work.

"It is not clear whether there is a relationship between either of these facts and the spreading blight of reruns, but this is a matter that requires some close scrutiny."

Whitehead said a study by Hollywood unions "hardhit" by reruns claims that reruns constitute 60 per cent of network prime time as a nationwide average. "This has happened slowly, but it is now getting to critical proportions," he said.

"I've read that the networks are working with a 44-week schedule, which contemplates 20 to 22 weeks of reruns, and this doesn't even take the summer weeks into account," Whitehead said.

"We are going to look at the rerun problem carefully and make our recommendations to the (FCC) Federal Communications Commission if necessary or urge the networks to take whatever action is deemed appropriate," he said.

What's The Law

The Case Of The Bad Golfer

By Jack Strauss LL. B.

Mortiner purhased a lovely home adjacent to the 13th fairway of a golf club. Between his property line and the fairway, however, stood 30 feet of dense trees that ranged anywhere from 45 to 60 feet in height.

Consequently, Mortimer wasn't particularly concerned about flying golf balls one hot afternoon as he was sipping dry martinis on his patio. The severe headache he subsequently acquired, however, wasn't from the martinis. Standing on the 13th tee, Harvey lofted an extraorinarily bad shot that cleared the trees and skulled poor Mortimer.

Upon recovering from the clunking, Mortimer sued both Harvey and the golf club for his injuries.

"How Harvey managed to clear those trees with his golf balls," responded an official of the club, "is beyond me. It was like hitting his ball over the Rocky Mountains. Certainly we can't be held responsible for so improbable a feat."

"Whiel it may have seemed improbable," was Mortimer's answer, "Harvey sure proved that it was possible. And, the knob on my noggin confirms it. Consequently, I'm entitled to collect for their skull -dugery."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit Mortimer to collect for the consequences of Harvey's extraordinary bad shot?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that the law does not afford protection against unlikely misfortune. In this case, with the barrier of tall trees, it could not reasonably have been anticipated that someone might hit such a powerfully bad shot that it would clear the trees and strike someone on the other side.

Sales Slow On Guns Then Twelve Stolen

COLUMBIA, Tenn. (AP) — Mike Morris said he had just commented to a coworker at Gibson's discount store Thursday about how slow handgun sales had been. The next customer pulled a gun of his own and stole 12 of them.

"I was just looking at the gun counter and said, 'We haven't sold many handguns this week,' just before the robbery," related Morris, manager of the store's sporting goods section.

Morris said the robber carried a sawed-off shotgun under his coat and pulled it out after carefully looking over the display counter. He said the man didn't demand any cash — just the guns.

Danes Modernize Greenlands Eskimo Justice System

GODTHAAB, Greenland (AP) — This is where murderers serve their time in an open prison whose inmates go out to earn money for use on release.

Once-remote settlements of seal hunters meted out traditional Eskimo justice. An assault was punished with a beating by other men. A murderer would be exiled — certain death under arctic conditions.

When the Danes began modernizing this island they concentrated the population in small townships along the coast, and introduced European-style treatment of crime. They found the idea of being locked up was alien to the Greenland temperament. The open detention center, serving all Greenland, was started in 1967. Called the Institution for Convicts, it has places for 18 male inmates, but sometimes has to take a few more.

The geography prevents fugitives from getting very far, and most return voluntarily. Punishment for "a little excursion" is loss of privileges for a time.

The detention center is as comfortable as a typical hostel for young workers. It is that in effect, because inmates average 23-25 years of age. So long as they behave they go out to work in the town every day, at union rates. Every week authorities deduct about $17 for board and lodging, and allow $6 pocket money.

After deductions for fines, damages, child support and clothing, the balance is banked for the prisoner's release.

Per Hamann, chief of the institute, says the longest-serving inmate has 29,000 kroner, over $4,000 to his credit.

Chief of Police J.R. Carlsson reports that 90 per cent of crime is committed under the influence of alcohol. Until 1954 Greenlanders had only a homebrew kind of beer. When the island ceased to be a colony and became part of the Kingdom of Denmark the inhabitants received the rights — and temptations — of Danish citizens.

When the time comes for parole the apparatus of the Danish welfare state is mobilized to see that ex-prisoners have jobs, somewhere to live and free medical treatment.

The police chief says it's too early to tell statistically whether the combination of open determination and rehabilitation is working. It is roughly estimated that recidivism, meaning repeat crimes, is about 25 per cent, half the rate in Denmark proper.

St. Louis JC's Work On Plan For Pavilion

ST. LOUIS (AP)-- The Jaycees here are working on a plan whereby they could pay off the debts on the Spanish International Pavilion and have the idle building be operated for public use.

The St. Louis Jaycees Foundation said today the idea is to get the Pavilion back in operation to help spur the development of the downtown area.

The Pavilion is located just north of Busch Memorial Stadium. It was a main attraction at the New York World's Fair in 1964 and was later dismantled and moved to St. Louis. But lack of tourists and high costs caused the creditors to lock the doors more than two years ago.

One proposed use for the Pavilion is to turn it into an Aquacenter. Part of the building would be used for an aquarium and office space would be rented out.

Full details of the Jaycees plan have not been released but it was reported to involve donating of outstanding bonds to the non-profit Jaycees Foundation. Civic Center Redevelopment Corporation, which leases the land, is the holder of the bonds. Carondelet Savings and Loan Association holds a $2.5 million dollar mortgage on the building.

PUBLIC NOTICES

CITY OF SIKESTON, MO.
Resolution

A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of one and one-half inch hotmix asphaltic pavement on six inch soil cement base on Peach Tree Lane from Baker Lane to dead end in the city of Sikeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the council of the city of Sikeston, state of Missouri, as follows: section 1: that the council of the city of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the city of Sikeston. section 2: that the nature and scope of the improvement shall consist of furnishing all cost, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. section 3: that the estimated cost of the improvement is $3.00 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement. section 4: that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the state of Missouri and the ordinances of the city of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the city council the general revenue fund of the city of Sikeston is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement. section 5: that any work performed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the state of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the industrial commission of Missouri. section 6: that the city clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the city of Sikeston,, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions. Read the first, second and third times and passed and approved this 5th day of September, 1972. Approved: Frank Ferrell, Mayor; Attest: John W. Vaughn, City Clerk.

The sunflower is a large plant originally grown by the New World Indians who ate its seeds, rich in vitamin C. It was revered as a symbol by ancient sun worshippers in Peru, The World Almanac says. The sunflower may grow to a height of 15 feet, and its flower head may reach a diameter of about one foot.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, Sept. 18, the 262nd day of 1972. There are 104 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1793, PresiDent George Washington laid the cornerstone of the Capitol Building in Washington.

On this date:

In 1759, the French surrendered Quebec to the British.

In 1810, Chile declared independence from Spain.

In 1850, the U.S. Congress passed the Fugitive Slave Act, Permitting slave owners to reclaim slaves who had escaped into other states.

In 1931, Japan began military occupation of Manchuria.

In 1961, U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold was killed in an airplane crash in northern Rhodesia.

Ten years ago: The Soviet Union accused France and West Germany of scheming to block an East-West settlement on Berlin.

Five years ago: The United States announced it would build an anti-missile network to counter any attack by Communist China.

One year ago: Egypt and Israel exchanged rocket fire across the Suez Canal for the first time since a cease-fire 13 months earlier.

Today's birthdays: former film star Greta Garbo is 67 years old. Undersecretary of State Curtis W. Tarr is 48.

Thought for today: I won't quarrel with my bread and butter — Jonathan Swift, English satirist, 1667-1745.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

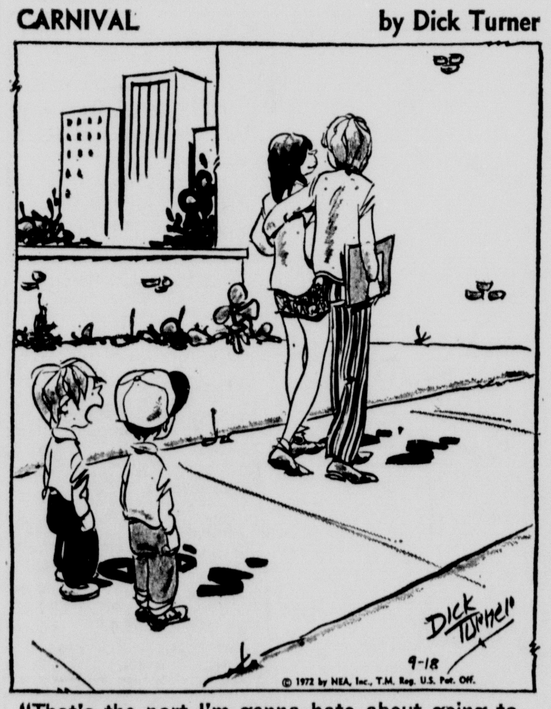

Keeping in Shape

WITH schools and colleges opening across the country, it is well to remember that all nature is a classroom, and the wise man can find a learning experience in any situation. The obvious lesson here is that bike riding does wonders for good health, physical fitness and an attractive figure. We rate the young lady A-plus in Bikeology.

Another A-plus rating is the BMA/6 Seal of Certification, found on the seat mast, under the saddle of many American bikes. It means that production models have been tested by the Nationwide Consumer Testing Institute.

Deaths

HOWARD I. STURGEON

MALDEN — Services for Howard Isac Sturgeon, 84, who died Friday in Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff, were held today at 2 p.m. in Boyd Funeral Chapel. The Rev. Jim Black officiated, assisted by the Rev. C. Winberry.

A retired farmer, he was a lifetime resident of this area. He was born Sept. 22, 1887 near Zalma.

On Jan. 31, 1910, he married Clara Lorine Lacy, who preceded him in death.

His second wife, Stella Myrtle Belt Sturgeon, whom he married Sept. 14, 1946 near Piggott, Ark., survives.

Other survivors include three sons, Alfred Sturgeon of Neelyville, A. E. Sturgeon of Malden and Bill Sturgeon of Poplar Bluff; four daughters, Mrs. Cecil Mincey of Malden, Mrs. Perry T. Mosbey of St. Charles, Mrs. Freda Gulley of Flint, Mich., and Mrs. R. G. Arrington of Neelyville; one half brother, Jasper Sturgeon of Fredericktown; one stepson, Edward Roland of Flint, Mich.; six stepdaughters, Irene Rigsbee of Jonesboro, Ark., Evelyn Hampton and Wanda Pickard of Malden, Lillian Brandt of Orange, Calif., Vella Cloud of Flint, Mich., and Mildred Shaw of Montgomery, Fla.; and 16 grandchildren, 29 great- grandchildren and two great- great- grandchildren.

Burial was in Memorial Park Cemetery.

HATTIE HAWKINS

Hattie Hawkins, 62, of Route Four, died Saturday at Chaffee General Hospital.

She was born Dec. 25, 1909 at Winona, Miss.

Survivors include one son, Willie C. Hawkins, and two daughters, Mildred and Ola Hawkins, all of Sikeston; and one sister, Luddie Williams of Mississippi.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday in Christian Memorial Funeral Home with Russell Knauer, presiding minister of the Jehovah's Witness congregation, officiating.

Burial will follow in Smith Cemetery.

JOHN R. MILLER

BELEN, N.M. — John R. Miller, 31, a former resident of Canalou, Mo., died Friday approximately nine miles from Albuquerque in an automobile accident.

The body is being returned to Sikeston, Mo., and will be taken to Christian Memorial Funeral Home.

Arrangements are incomplete.

REATHA L. WHITE

CHARLESTON — Services for Mrs. Reatha Lora White, 62, who died Friday in Battle Creek, Mich., will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday at McMikle Funeral Home with the Rev. Clyde Livingston officiating.

Burial will be in IOOF Cemetery.

She was born Sept. 26, 1909 in Tennessee and was a member of Bement Baptist Church. She was employed at Brown Shoe Co. in Charleston.

Survivors include her widower, Erris Lyndon White; one son, Kenneth Leon White of Chicago; three daughters, Mrs. U. G. Cotty of Conran, Mrs. Joe O'Guin of Battle Creek, Mich., and Mrs. Wallace Kernel of Chicago; two sisters, Mrs. Rob Wagster of Trenton, Tenn., and Mrs. Wilbert Carter of Taylor, Mich.; and 10 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

5 Arrested

CHARLESTON — Police reported five arrests during the weekend.

Kenneth Hudson, 27, of East Prairie and Dorothy Hooper, 40, of Bertrand each paid a fine today in City Court of $108 for driving while intoxicated.

Charges of public intoxication brought an $18 fine to Lloyd Haynes, 20, of Charleston; a $33 fine to Ted Allen Reynold, 21, of Charleston; and a $16 fine to Billie Skelton, 23, of East Prairie.

14-Year-Old Accidentally Shot To Death

FAIRDEALING —Charles Stuart Guinn, 14, of Fairdealing, was accidentally shot and killed by James Lee Robinson, 16, of Fairdealing, Route One at 12:40 p.m. Saturday about one -quarter mile north of Fairdealing.

According to the highway patrol, Guinn shot Robinson's 20 -guage shotgun and then, without saying anything, reloaded it. A few minutes later, Robinson picked up the gun to reload it. The gun discharged as he started to open the chamber.

Guinn, who was standing 60 feet away, was struck in the forehead and killed.

Dog's Name 'Gator Bait' Is Prophetic

BOC RATON, Fla. (AP) — What's in a name? Well, it was a prophecy of doom for a dog named Gator Bait who was eaten by an alligator named Aloysius.

Gater Bait was the 5-month-old pet Dalmatian of the Roger Miller family, who live near Lake Floresta in this community north of Fort Lauderdale.

About a week ago, Gator Bait and Jeff Miller, 18, were walking near the lakeside when Jess warned the dog to stop sniffing around near the water, which harbors a number of gators. But Gator Bait later sneaked back to the lake.

The last the family saw of their pet was "a yelp and a splash" and the gator known as Aloysius surfacing a few minutes later, chewing contentedly.

Mental Health Officers To Be Installed

The Tri —County Mental Health Association will install new officers at its annual membership meeting sept. 28 at Hunter Memorial First Presbyterian Church.

The meeting will begin at 7:15 p.m. with an ice cream social and will close with a film on mental health.

The public is invited to attend the meeting.

Guns Stolen From Home Near Hayti

HAYTI —Thieves entered the Joe Robert Meeks home on Route One sometime Sunday and took nine guns, two movie cameras, three still cameras, a pair of binoculars, a wig and a ladies' pantsuit.

The theft was reported to Pemiscot County sheriff's officers at about 6:30 p.m. Sunday. Investigation is still under way.

Philip is a Greek name which means "lover of horses."

Malden Man Escapes From Campbell Jail

CAMPBELL —Tom Pipes, 32, of Malden escaped from the city jail at 4:30 p.m. Saturday. He is believed to have fled in a 1962 black Ford.

Pipes was being held on charges of common assault.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
SODA POP CONCESSION
By Jack Anderson

STODDARD COUNTY QUEENS were crowned Saturday night at the county fair in Dexter. Miss Stoddard County is Becky Bailiff of Dexter and Little Miss Stoddard County is Jayme Beck of Bernie.

NFU Spokesman Tells Congress

Wheat Windfall Could Hit $100 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Farmers Union said today that big grain companies easily could have collected windfall profits of $100 million under export-subsidy maneuvering allowed by the Agriculture Department in wheat sales to the Soviet Union.

Weldon V. Barton, NFU legislative representative, told Congress in prepared testimony that the $100-million figure was only a possibility, however.

"Actual windfalls have been, or will be, realized to the extent that certain grain-trade companies had 'inside' information on which they could gamble on staggering their contracting for sale to the Soviets or other countries and their booking for export subsidies," Barton said.

A House subcommittee is checking into allegations that some private exporting companies had advance or inside information on sales and subsidies.

The probe, into sales totaling 400 million bushels of wheat to the Soviets, began last Thursday.

Charles W. Pence, an official with the Export Marketing Service in USDA, also was to appear today before the panel, headed by Rep. Graham Purcell, D-Tex.

Pence, earlier testimony showed, telephoned a number of exporters on Aug. 24 notifying them of a change in exportsubsidy policy. That change was announced publicly a day later.

The subsidies, paid to bridge the difference between U.S. prices and what exporters get for wheat on the world market, were available for one week at a rate of 47 cents per bushel on wheat sold prior to the Aug. 24 cutoff.

Department records showed the 47-cent subsidies were booked for about 280 million bushels of wheat during the Aug. 25-Sept. 1 grace period at a total value of about $130 million. The subsidy rate since then has been lowered to less than 25 cents a bushel.

Barton said it was possible for an exporter to have bought, for example, 50 million bushels of wheat on Aug. 1 and delivered it to an ocean port at a total cost of $1.80½ per bushel.

The export subsidy on Aug. 1, he said, was 16 cents per bushel, making the "world" or export price $1.64½.

"Assume that Company X stored the grain at the port and postponed booking for export subsidies until Aug. 26, when the payment was 47 cents," Barton said.

"Windfall profit to Company X is about 31 cents per bushel (47 cents minus 16 cents) or $15.5 million on 50 million bushels."

Barton said that without specific facts he could only suggest the size of total windfalls that could result from 800 million to 850 million bushels of wheat booked for export since last July 1.

The farm price of wheat rose sharply in late July and August after it was apparent the Russians were buying huge quantities.

Minister Dies In Pulpit

HOLCOMB — The Rev. L. C. Glenn, 71, of Route One died Sunday at 11:50 a.m. from a heart attack while speaking from his pulpit in Tatum Chapel General Baptist Church where he served as minister.

He was born Jan. 13, 1901 in Dalghren, Ill. On Oct. 27, 1922, he married the former Mamie Samples, who survives.

Other survivors include one newphew, Bobby Glenn, of the home; one brother, Oscar L. Glenn; two stepbrothers, George Glenn of Flint, Mich., and Joe Glenn of Mount Vernon, Ill.

Services will be held Tuesday at 2:30 p.m. in Landess Funeral Home with the Rev. Junior Crain officiating.

Burial will be in Pleasant Valley Cemetery.

PATROLMAN ROBERT EDDLEMAN directs traffic away from an accident which injured one man on Highway 60 one mile east of Morehouse.

Campaign Expenses Are Filed

BLOOMFIELD — Stoddard County primary election candidates have filed required affidavits listing campaign expenses, according to County Recorder of Deeds Mrs. Ethel Crites.

State law requires candidates to file a report of their expenses within 30 days following an election. Sept. 9 was deadline for filing these reports.

Expenses of $2,226.78 were reported by Jim McDaniel of Dexter, Democratic candidate for nomination for sheriff.

Democratic candidate for attorney general, James E. Spain of Bloomfield, listed a $100 filing fee, $6,491.72 in campaign expenses for advertisments, campaign supplies of $2,062.32 worker expenses of $375 and worker salaries of $245.29. Spains expenses totaled $9,274.33.

Elber Howard of Puxico listed a filing fee of $25 and campaign expense of $202.80. He was a candidate for state representative from the 157th district.

Democratic candidate for sheriff Edsel Edwards of Bloomfield paid a filing fee of $25 and listed campaign expenses of $576.00.

Gene Worley of Dexter, Democratic candidate for associate judge, second district, listed campaign expenses for $417.95.

Cecil B. Hicks of Essex, Democratic candidate for sheriff, listed a total of $883.57.

Melvin (Churn) Williams of Bloomfield who ran for collector- treasurer, listed a total of $2,393.

Harold Snider of Dexter, who campaigned for associate judge, second district listed his campaign expenses at $348.35.

Democratic candidate for prosecuting attorney Paul McGhee of Dexter listed his total costs at $55.27.

Melvin Gainer of Dexter, candidate for public administrator, reported a total cost of $30.

Willard Darnell of Bloomfield, candidate for treasurer- collector, reported expenses of $1,548.96.

Candidate for nomination for sheriff Jack Hollis of Dexter reported a cost of $172.80.

Ray W. Rainey of Dexter, candidate for coroner, reported $5.70 as his expense.

Fire Guts Prairie House

EAST PRAIRIE — A fire of undetermined origin gutted the frame home of Mrs. Alma Morgan, 302 Presson St. at 4:40 a.m. Saturday.

Fire Chief Frank King said the interior of the home, furnishings and personal possessions were lost.

Cited For Destroying Properties

Sunday night was a bad night for J. W. Sisk of 813 Pine St.

Police charge that Sisk's automobile hit two parked cars on Illinois Avenue at about 8 p.m., continued on to Ables Road where it hit two mailboxes and the rear of a pickup truck, then hit and ripped the north guard rail of the Ables Road and Dona Street bridge, knocked down the bridge warning sign, ran into a ditch and came to rest against a fence northwest of the Ables Road-Dona Street intersetion.

Sisk was charged with careless and imprudent driving, destroying city property and destroying private property.

Sisk tested .04 alcohol content on the breathalyzer, police say. The legal intoxication level begins at .10.

Police also arrested Carol Lovins on Saturday for cashing bogus checks at The Classic Dress Shop and Barkett's Big Star in Midtowner village Shopping Center.

Other arrests over the weekend included David C. Jones of Route Four, driving while intoxicated and driving on a revoked license; Larry G. Cain, 302 South Third St. in Charleston, careless and imprudent driving; Dennis

Two Boys Lying in Road

Three Killed During Weekend

Two St. Louis area youths were killed early Sunday morning and a Doniphan man died Saturday afternoon in two fatal accidents occurring this weekend.

The late death of a motorcycle accident victim brought the number of fatalities on Southeast Missouri highways this year to 115, according to the highway patrol.

Killed Sunday were Lindel Kirby Edmondson, 16, of St. Louis and Larry Campbell, 14, of Webster Groves. The youths were apparently lying in the road asleep and were struck by a truck driven by Paul Roussin, 44, of Festus. The accident, which occurred between 4 and 4:30 a.m. 17 miles north of Poplar Bluff on Highway 67, was not reported by the driver until he reached the Farmington Police Department. He told officers he had not been sure of what he had hit.

Killed Saturday at 1:50 p.m. four miles south of Doniphan on Route A was Claude W. Smith, 59, of Doniphan. He died of injuries sustained when his car ran off the road on a curve and struck a tree.

A motorcycle accident on Sept. 9 on a gravel road near the Arkansas line resulted in the death of John Lewis, 25, of Gary, Ind. Lewis, taken to Blytheville Air Force Base Hospital in Blytheville, Ark., was transferred to Chickasawbe Hospital in Blytheville, where he died at 12:48 Thursday.

Four persons received minor injuries in an accident on Highway 60 two miles east of Poplar Bluff at 10:50 p.m. Saturday. Injured were Harry Bales, 58, of Van Buren, driving a pickup truck, and a passenger, Wayne Hedrick, 38, also of Van Buren. Others injured were James Stinnett, 32, of Cabot, Ark., and a passenger of his car, Ernestine Stinnett, 44, also of Cabot.

The injured were treated at Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff. The accident occurred when the Bales vehicle pulled into the path of Stinnett's car.

One mile south of Holcomb at 7:14 p.m. Saturday, a two-car accident injured five people. A car driven by John Skaggs, 23, of Campbell, was struck by a car driven by Ernest Shephard, 26, of St. Francis, Ark., who received possible chest injuries.

Richard A. Carter, 22, of Piggott, Ark., a passenger in the Shepard auto, sustained cuts on his head. Passengers in the Skaggs car who were injured were Betty Skaggs, 18, of Campbell, possible chest injuries; Leo Skaggs, 21, of Holcomb, possible back injury; and Brenda Skaggs, 24, of Holcomb, minor cuts.

All were treated at Dunklin County Memorial

United Fund Goal Is $46,347

The Sikeston United Fund advance gifts campaign began today and will continue through Oct. 1, when the official SUF drive will begin. This year's budget will be a record $46,347. A kickoff breakfast will be held Oct. 2.

Campaign chairman Rob Mitchell said 11 agencies will benefit from the United Fund campaign this year. He attributed the budget increase to a new policy of including the entire amounts requested by each agency. In past years the requests were trimmed before the campaign began, Mitchell said.

During the advance gifts drive, letters will be mailed to past contributors and campaign workers will also contact donors for contributions. Anyone desiring to give during the advance gifts drive may do so by contacting any member of the board of directors.

Co-chairman in charge of retail business will be Jerry Bratcher. Lee Shell will serve as co-chairman in charge of industries.

This year's $46,347 budget is an increase of $8,347 over last year's goal of $38,000.

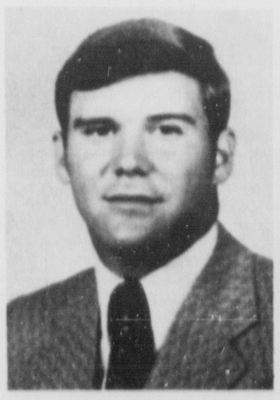

The money is distributed to the 11 agencies and all of it stays in Sikeston. The agencies and their budgets include: Boy Scouts, $10,200; Civil Air Patrol, $850; city welfare, $10,500; Girl Scouts, $8,000; American Red Cross, $5,297; Salvation Army, $3,500; Sikeston Activitiy Center, $1,500; United Service Organ, $500; Community Sheltered Workshop, $2,000; Sikeston Child Development Center, $2,000; and Heritage House, $2,000.

Future articles are planned on each of these establishments to show what purpose they serve and what the money will be used for.

United Fund board members include: Jewell Allen, Jess Lacefield, Emma Owen, Herb Stephens, Betty Mitchell, Lillian Standley, Ilena Aslin, Rich Adams, Jerry Bratcher, B. W. The Campaign is on, and time is passing swiftly. No mere U.S. President can bring Utopia, though we have all gone through the stage of thinking that if we can just get our candidate elected, everything will be set right.

Experience can teach us to be realistic, yet we have to be careful that it does not make us pessimistic. Presidents are mortals, more like the rest of us than we dare believe. As Walter Trohan remarked whenHuntley allegedly remarked that he did not sleep easily with the incumbent in the White House: "I have known seven Presidents, so I do not scare easily."

It is not so much the exuberant aspirations of either candidate that count. What counts is the ability of a candidate, his sense of responsibility, and his long-range rather than short-range goals. Pleasing the people now is not half as important as protecting our country's future through responsible policies and programs.

Our system can get you down if you let it. But it is still the best there is so far. Let's keep it that way, and work to make it better.

The editor very seldom apologizes and admits to being wrong, course to himself he does often, but to the public very seldom. But C. R. "Pete" Foster, Robinson Lumber Company's riding boss, took advantage of the weakness of Mrs. Foster and brought the editor some home-made pickles, beets, jelly and sauerkraut. So there is one good thing about the paragraph I had in about nobody making pickles anymore. It did produce some for the editors house and we appreciate it, and of course, we thank Pete, but Mrs. Foster is the one who did the work of putting it up. Anyway, thanks Pete and be certain to read it, maybe you can catch me again.

WE DON'T NEED
THE HYPHEN BACK

When they used to call them "hyphenated Americans," it was a means of identifying the ethnic origins of certain Americans -- Polish - Americans, Irish- Americans, German - Americans, Italian - Americans, and even Canadian and Mexican Americans.

That was a couple of generations ago, and for a while the hyphen faded out. It was enough to be just plain American.

Today, the hypen seems to be coming back in slightly different form. We are tending more and more to group people again by ethnic or racial origins and, in some instances, it has become the name of the game in politics.

This trend has prompted Charles Densford who writes a column to attack such hyphenation by the device of "reductio ad absurdum" -- reducing it to an absurdity.

"My ancestors," he writes, "were English, German and Dutch. My wife's were Spanish, French, Italian, Indian and Mexican.

"Our children, then, must be English - German - Dutch- Spanish- French - Italian- Indian - Mexican -Americans. All of which is ridiculous.

"Furthermore, it is as ridiculous to use one hyphen as it is to use eight of them.

"While my children are vaguely aware of their origins, they think of themselves only as members of that vast conglomerate called "American.' "

This country has long been the "melting pot" of the world. For generations we have taken pride in accepting the poor, the hungry, the oppressed from other lands and absorbing them in our melting pot.

What those people were looking for then was freedom. They asked nothing more than the chance to get a job and raise a family and be known simply as Americans.

If we could all only get back to being just plain Americans again -- proud Americans, dedicated Americans, without the hyphen.

We believe it is time to stop talking about how the Polish- Americans are going to vote, or the Italian - Americans, or the Spanish - Americans, or the Irish-Americans. They're going to vote like Americans, of course. That is, vote their convictions as individuals. That's what America is all about, despite the few dissenters and critics of our land of the free and the brave.

According to U. S. News & World Report, the U.S. lists 524 servicemen captured or interned, and 1,240 missing throughout Indo-China. 915 of these are from the Air Force. 277 are from the Navy. 444 are from the Army. 128 are from the Marines.

From what can be pieced together, 866 are held by the North Vietnam, or were last seen in North Vietnam. In addition, 603 were captured or last seen in South Vietnam, and 293 in Laos. Two pilots, downed in Communist China, are reported to have been interned there.

Some prisoners have been held for more than eight years -- and the majority for at least five years.

North Vietnam has released nine U.S. prisoners, the last three in 1969. The Viet Cong have freed 23. By comparison, 188 North Vietnamese have been repatriated and 1,231 Viet Cong have been released. Also, 3,082 Viet Cong have been let out of prison after defecting to the South Vietnamese government.

How have the POWs been treeated?

North Vietnam became a party to the Geneva Convention governing the treatment of prisoners of war in 1957. The Defense Department annual report for the year starting July 1, 1972, lists the following treaty terms and violations:

--Neutral inspection of prisoner camps will be permitted, including interviews of prisoners without witnesses in attendance.

The enemy has never permitted such inspections or such interviews.

-- Prisoners' names will be released promptly.

Names the enemy has released have not been disclosed promptly nor through regular channels.

-- Notification of deaths in captivity and full information on circumstances and place of burial will be furnished.

The enemy has not furnished any information about circumstances of death and place of burial.

-- Prisoner -of-war camps will be marked clearly and their location made public.

The enemy has not marked its camps nor divulged their location.

-- The seriously sick and wounded will be repatriated or interned in a neutral country.

The enemy has refused to comply.

-- Prisoners will be permitted to send at least two letters and four cards a month.

The average has been two or three letters a year and none at all from some prisoners.

-- Sufficient food must be given to prisoners.

All the released prsoners have been found to be underweight and suffering from malnutrition.

-- Prisoners will not be held in conditions of close confinement.

The enemy has held some men in solitary confinement for years.

-- Prisoners wil be humanely treated.

This provision has been consistently violated.

U. S. Defense officials point out that if all American prisoners are being treated as well as the 10 Ramsey Clark interviewed, then there has been a great improvement in prison conditions since the Viet Cong released the last American Oct. 8, 1971.

But the fact is, the vast majority of Americans held by the Communists have not been seen by anybody but their captors.

We believe the American people can judge what is right and wrong when the POW issue is colored by politics.

NEW YORK (AP) — A computer is a better recall machine than the human memory in some ways.

But it excels only in terms of pure quantity. No human mind could store and then deliver back on demand the millions of figures or letters or words that a computer can.

But when it comes to quality, the machine is hopelessly outclassed. Only the blood-fed heart and mind can recall the flavor of a memory or restore an emotional event with all the impact that it had originally.

You've got a pretty good memory box in your own head if you can push a mental button and it will remember when:

A juvenile delinquent was a kid who pitched pennies at sidewalk cracks for keeps.

A man who skipped going to church on Sunday felt guilty about it all next week.

You weren't a real traveling salesman until you learned to call every Pullman porter "George."

In summer you could tell a dude by his straw boater and two-tone shoes.

In a fair fight, there still was some tradition of sportsmanship. You were supposed to refrain from kicking an opponent when he was down — a rule later dropped by a generation which believes that it is only when a fellow is down that you can give him a proper kicking.

Anyone walking down the street of a small town after midnight would start a dozen dogs barking.

People pushed lawnmowers instead of taking a scenic ride across the lawn on them.

Sometimes it seemed that the only things the parlor of a home were used for were wakes and later, the reading oy the will.

A kid knew the coming Saturday afternoon movie serial would be a dinger if Eddie Polo or Pearl White was in it.

F. Scott and Zelda Fitzgerald were young, alive, in love — and still living together, a romance to remember.

Producer Billy Rose, a former shorthand whiz, was earning a living on Broadway as a song lyricist, turning out such hits as "Me and My Shadow," "The Old Gang of Mine," and the one about some odd character who left Spearmint chewing gum on the bedpost overnight.

A man was as good as his word.

TOO MUCH EMPHASIS ON CANDIDATE STATEMENTS

Both Presidential Hopeful McGovern and President Nixon have advocated a guaranteed income for United States citizens.

Most Americans who are not on the public aid rolls are against the proposals of either, believing that a guaranteed annual income would only encourage idleness, boost inflation, increase unemployment, and make it more difficult for anyone to find help that was willing to work.

However, we believe too much stress is placed on the statements of either of these candidates.

Whether we're Democrat or Republican we should realize that neither Nixon or McGovern can do anything about such a change as a guaranteed annual income without the help of Congress.

Both the House and the Senate at Washington would have to go along and approve such a law, and right now we seriously doubt that either would do so.

In addition, we have a suspicion that both Nixon and McGovern are advocating the guaranteed annual income more as a vote- getting gimmick than as a sincere hope that such a law will be approved.

CONSTRUCTION STARTED FOR A "PLATFORM" CITY

A "platform city" raised approximately fifty feet above the existing street grid is becoming a reality. The Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation has announced that the first phase of Houston Center is now being constructed. Eventually it will occupy 33 contiguous blocks of downtown Houston.

The structure will separate completely vehicular and pedestrian traffic. The first three and one-half levels, along with two underground levels, will be devoted to parking for more than 550 cars. The roof of the garage, about 40 feet above the street level in this structure, will form the main pedestrian level and will be reached from the street by a huge enclosed escalator, elevators and stairwells.

STEPS TO PREVENT PANIC IN BLACKOUTS

What does the Cocoanut Grove fire in Boston in 1942 have to do with today's electrical power shortage?

The real tragedy of that fire in which 491 persons died is that much of the loss of life was due not to the fire itself but to the sheer panic created by the night club suddenly being thrown into complete darkness.

The genesis of emergency lighting dates back to that tragedy. The recent rash of power failures or shortages on the Eastern seaboard has renewed emphasis on the importance of emergency lighting.

"The field of Standby Instantaneous Emergency Power became a full-fledged industry this year when politicians, educators scientists, architects and engineers began to realize that emergency precautions must be taken immediately to prevent panic and danger when there is a blackout or brownout," says Stephen J. Ziff, president of the SoundScriber Corp.

His company's Dual-Lite Division developed the first EXIT sign with self-contained battery and relay that automatically illuminates the sign when normal power fails.

While it is impossible for standby power to correct an entire blackout, there are many individual situations where emergency power or panic lighting can be supplied immediately, says Ziff. Examples are schools, hospitals and commercial and industrial facilities where either personal injury or economic loss may result from a power interruption.

He notes that a power hesitation of just 1/120th of a second can foul up computers and other highly sophisticated instrumentation. A forthcoming revision of the National Electric Code will increase from 30 minutes to 1½ hours the time that emergency lighting must be provided in many public buildings.

All of which suggests a new motto for our time: It is better to light an EXIT sign than to curse the blackout.

REMEMBER THE CZECHS

Opinion -molders and leftist fellow travelers try to have us all forget that such a thing as a communist menace exists. As long as the usual communist famines, executions, and purges are of the routine type, our national mass media largely ignore them. When a major atrocity occurs which cannot be ignored, it is discounted as soon as feasible. Any communist crime is treated differently than are the same or lesser crimes by non -communists.

The enemies of Freedom do not like anyone to bring up the subject of the invasion of Czechoslovakia by Soviet Russia and the Warsaw Pact armies, and when the sjubject of the continuing enslavement of the Czechs comes up, the apologists for communist agression try to counter and silence the topic by equating that with the U.S. defense of Indochina from communist invasion.

The Freedomist needs verbal ammunition to counter the glib and adroit enemies of Freedom. One quick and ready reply to those who try to equate the communist invasion of Czechoslovakia can be to remind your listener that the Czech invasion came in violation of a solemn treaty signed by the Russians shortly before the invasion. Under that treaty, the Czechs thought they were being permitted to "liberalize" their government slightly. Actually, the pact was a typical communist subterfuge to lull the Czechs while the invasion was being planned.

Now a new note has been added. The Russians must maintain heavy occupation forces throughout Eastern Europe to keep the slave nations under control. So now they are sending Czechs to their long frontier with China to help bolster the Soviet armies there. The Soviets may have as many as 50 divisions along that China border now. Czech troops surely have no desire to serve as Russian cannon fodder if the Red giants fight. HLH

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

No Coattails This Year:
Meany Says Unions Can Elect Labor Congress Even in Nixon Sweep
By Victor Riesel

NEW YORK — Insiders are saying that the Ted Kennedy -George McGovern circuit has been the greatest advance tryout in political "showbiz" history, in the parlance of Variety, that weekly blast of freshness which sears through the lewd remains of old Broadway.

Among those insiders are powerful, politically professional labor leaders who sit by glumly while the crowds roar. They watch Ted and say he could have done it this year but positively next time, "in '76."

Meanwhile they --especially the chief of chiefs, George Meany --go about the intense business of electing a Democratic Congress "friendly" to the AFL —CIO. And, make no mistake, the labor committees for Nixon and those for McGovern — Shriver work together on this front.

The McGovern labor group and the special AFL —CIO Congressional committee -- which recently held 35 strategy conferences in 10 key political areas --are pooling their skills on registration and will be shoulder -to -shoulder legions getting out the vote on Election Day.

Once you get them below the Presidential line, labor is united. They're concentrating on electing some 80 members of the House in marginal districts -- and some 16 to 18 of two seats in the House and a break --even in the Senate.

Meany points to a poll taken by Democratic Congressman James O'Hara of Michigan's heavily blue -collar 12 district --which is Macomb County and part of Detroit.

Rep. O'Hara took a private poll, according to Meany, and it gave the Congressman a 3 to 1 margin over his Republican opponent --but showed Richard Nixon a 2 to 1 favorite over McGovern.

"So we don't buy the idea that the Presidential candidate, whoever he may be, is going to automatically carry his party with him into the House and Senate," says Meany.

If Meany's strategy succeeds, labor will continue to dominate the Congress and decide, for example, what happens to the expiring Economic Stabilization Act, which gives the President the power to impose wage and price controls, as well as any other proposed socio -economic and labor legislation.

If labor has a "friendly" Congress, then whoever is President will have to bargain with "the movement."

And if the Congressmen of the marginal districts are elected with labor's help, then it will be labor which controls the Democratic party, should Sen. McGovern lose, and not the young people, or the "Galbraiths" (Meany's bete noire), or the intellectual elite.

And then the Ted Kennedy advance tryouts of these past few weeks will have been the advance runs for 1976, many a Meany labor leader, looking homeward politically, is saying.

movement if McGovern wins."

As Meany has put it, he resents the brushoff given the labor people at the Democratic National Convention, objects to the 50 college students who he says were delegates from California; objects to the fact that of 300 labor delegates only one major labor leader was invited to speak though such men as Sen. Gravel got time to praise Communist Angela Davis and was cheered; and objects to resolutions backing the anit -war Vietnam veterans who were questioned by a Federal grand jury in Tallahassee, Fla., about a suspect plot to attack the Republican convention.

Still irked over what he calls labor's "under -representation,"

Meany said recently:

"Working people are the backbone of this nation, and they are not about to be shunted aside in the interest of any privileged elite, or the whims of any political elite, or the theories of an intellectual elite. They will not blindly support those who assault their most deeply held values, demean their intelligence, scor n their organizations, laugh at their patriotism, or sneer at their way of life."

So Meany and the movement unitedly head for control of Congress --scoffing at the "coattail" theory as a bit of cocktail reception conservation naivete. Meany doesn't believe that a sweep by Richard Nixon would also sweep in a Republican Congress. He has pointed to Dwight Eisenhower's landslide election in 1956 --with the loss

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON —Congress has just passed legislation extending the federal school lunch program, but not without slipping in a clause that will help create a bonanza for vending machine companies.

Neither the House nor Senate had originally wanted to give the vending machine interests such a big break. But when the legislation was sent to a conference committee to iron out differences between the House and Senate versions of the bill, a funny thing happened.

Rep. Roman Pucinski, the likable Daley Democrat from Chicago who is running for the Senate this year, suddenly developed a passionate concern that the truck drivers who deliver soda pop might lose jobs if the machines were not allowed in school cafeterias and lunchrooms.

In the past, the Agriculture Department has not allowed vending machines in school refectories where free federal lunches are served. The Department felt that vending machines normally dispense soda pop and candy, which would work against the purposes of the free lunch program. This is to provide nutritious food.

The House bill ordered the Argiculture Department to permit vending machines which sold "nutritious foods" such as apples and dairy products. The Senate bill allowed vending machines only in senior high schools.

Pucinski led the battle for the vending machines inside the Senate -House conference committee. A bill was reported out which placed no restrictions whatever on the vending machines, despite the fact that dentists and dieticians across the country had opposed the machines from the start.

Although Pucinski was not alone in his support of stripping the Agriculture Department of its power to regulate the machines, he cast the swing vote that gave the soda pop and candy bar people a majority of the House conferences.

Pucinski told us he was contacted about six weeks ago about the bill by Ray Schoessling, a Teamsters Union official from Chicago, who told him "about the effect on a large number of truck drivers who deliver these school lunches."

"If you eliminate these beverages such as coke," Pucinski said he was told, "you're going to eliminate jobs."

Pucinski insisted that the Teamsters' pleas were not the only reason for his concern. He said he had long felt that school cafeterias and lunchrooms should be made more appealing to students.

"The Agriculture Department could have barred Cokes and Pepsi and Seven -up," he said. "If you're going to bar Coke, they're going to go the candy store and they're going to get pot."

Pucinski conceded, however, that the Teamsters have "been my friends for a long, long time." They had always contributed to his campaigns, he said, including this one.

— HARDSHIP SAFARIS —

With maximum fanfare, Interior Secretary Rogers Morton announced last February that eight large cats were being added to the list of endangered species.

This meant that no one could bring the skins of the animals --including tigers, leopards, cheetahs and jaguars --into this country except in cases of "undue economic hardship."

Nevertheless, sport hunters have been allowed to continue killing endangered cats and to import their pelts into this country as "trophies." One Hollywood woman was even allowed to bring home a leopard skin after it has been converted into a flashy coat by a London furrier.

We asked the Interior Department why it was still allowing the importations of the skins. An exception had been made, we were told, for those who had signed up for safaris prior to Morton's announcement.

Yet the law allows exceptions to be made only in cases of economic hardship. How, we asked, can a safari for some rich sportsman qualify as a hardship case?

"I can't explain it," acknowledged an Interior spokesman.

Footnote: The Fund for Animals, an organization devoted to saving endangered wildlife, says the Interior Department, at least, resisted an effort by Maurice Stans, the Nixon fund -raiser and big -game hunter, to get a permit for one of his friends who wanted to kill and import a tiger that had been on the endangered list.

— SHRIVER'S FAMILY —

Everyone knows the Kennedy family is rich. When Eunice Kennedy Shriver and four of her five children flew back to Washington from the family compound at Hyannis Port, Mass., the other day, however, they were all wedged into the tourist cabin.

The stewardesses and other passengers gave no sign that they recognized the wife and children of the Democratic vice presidential nominee. Mrs. Shriver was typically dissheveled, her hair in her eyes and a pencil protruding from behind one ear. One of her shoes even had a missing toe ornament.

Mrs. Shriver did her best to work on a messy pile of campaign material at the same time she was keeping order between her two youngest sons, Mark and Anthony.

At one point, Anthony asked: "Can't Daddy drive us to school?"

"No," replied his teen -aged sister Maria, "Daddy can't drive you to school."

"Yeah," chimed in Mark, "Daddy won't be there."

Pair Escape

POTOSI – Two men escaped during the weekend from Washington County jail and were captured Sunday night.

Authorities said Richard Helms Jr., 22, and William Griffin, 26, escaped after making a hole in the roof.

Helms was being held on murder charges in connection with the death of his father, and Griffin faces forgery charges.

Law officials said the two offered no resistance when they were captured.

Pilots Released In Hanoi Ceremony

HANOI (AP) — Three American pilots shot down during bomb raids over North Vietnam have been released from captivity at a ceremony organized by the North Vietnamese Army and attended by relatives and U.S. peace activists who had journeyed to Hanoi.

They are Navy Lt. Norris Charles, 27, whose wife Olga, had flown out from San Diego, Calif.; Navy Lt. Markham Gartley, 28, whose mother, Minnie Lee Gartley, came from Dunedin, Fla.; and Air Force Maj. Edward Elias, 34, of Valdosta, Ga.

Overjoyed at their new freedom, the three fliers were neatappearing in new civilian clothing provided them for Sunday's 40-minute ceremony, a unique affair in the annals of warfare.

Each pilot made a statement into microphones before the official release, held before Vietnamese and European television cameramen in a building of the Peoples Army.

Olga Charles, 27, who had had her hair washed and set in a downtown Hanoi beauty shop in anticipation of the ceremony, fought through the throng of cameramen and technicians for an emotional embrace with her husband.

Minnie Lee Gartley joyfully put her arms around her Navy pilot son and said, "He's even better looking than I remembered." Mrs. Gartley for the past four years has actively picketed Congress and the White House for an end to the war.

Elias, who until Saturday had expected his wife or father to come to Hanoi, said in a statement before the microphones, "I have been told that for various reasons they could not make it, but I will be seeing them soon."

Elias' father, Barney, a housing consultant, said in Jacksonville, Ill., he, his wife and daughter-in-law had decided it was "not in the best interest of all the POWs" for them to make the trip. He also said peace activists Cora Weiss and Dave Dellinger, who arranged the release and were at the Hanoi ceremony, had assured the Elias family the major's release would not be jeopardized by their not attending.

Charles, Gartley and Elias were the first American prisoners released by Hanoi since 1969. The U.S. Defense Department prior to Sunday listed 539 Americans known to be captured and held prisoner in Southeast Asia and more than 1,900 missing.

Following the ceremony, there was a banquet at the Hoa Binh Hotel.

Mrs. Weiss made a toast in sweet Vietnamese cordial. Then raising a glass of scotch provided by a newsman, Charles said, "I want to make a toast to the good people of America who brought this about."

In his formal statement before the microphones, Charles said, "First, I would like to express my appreciation for my release to my family. Secondly, I would like to thank the Vietnamese people for the humane treatment and generosity they have shown me. Finally, I would like to say that I am a happy man but I cannot truly be happy until this war is terminated."

Elias said at the formal ceremony, "I sincerely hope and pray that this act of release will be a great step to the end of the war and for the future release of all POWs both here and in the South."

Gartley, who was shot down more than four years ago, said, "News of this release came as a complete surprise to me. I feel this is a unique and very emotional situation. I would like to take this opportunity to thank the people and government of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam and attendant camp authorities for the kindnesses they have shown me since my capture."

Freedom for American POWs has been a major political issue between supporters and opponents of U.S. policy in Indochina. President Nixon has set release of the prisoners as a prerequisite for settlement of the conflict. Peace activists argue that the fate of the prisoners remains in jeopardy as long as the United States bombs North Vietnam.

The freed pilots and the visiting Americans will remain in Hanoi several days, then start home later this week.

Between their arrival Saturday and the ceremony Sunday the Americans were given a tour of destruction in Hanoi's suburbs which North Vietnamese guides said was caused by U.S. bomb raids earlier this year. Mrs. Charles and Mrs. Gartley were told their loved ones had been given the same tour after being brought out of their prison camps.

Before the ceremony, the American women had their hair and nails done in a Hanoi beauty parlor. Olga Charles' hair was only half dry when an air raid alert some everyone down to the basement bunker.

No bombs or shooting were heard and no planes came over the city.

Mrs. Gartley said the sights brought home to her "the horrors of war that we are protected from in America—it is more than our feelings and consciousness can absorb ... We thought we were prepared for what we had to see, but we were not."

Israelis End Raid In Lebanon

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli soldiers ended a 32hour search-and-destroy mission against Arab guerrillas inside Lebanon and then returned home to begin Yom Kippur, the holiest of Jewish holidays.

Lt. Gen David Elazar, Israel's chief of staff, said the mission ending Sunday night was a complete success and his forces destroyed 150 guerrilla houses and bunkers while killing about 60 terrorists and taking several prisoners.

Tel Aviv said three Israelis were killed and six wounded, while a Lebanese army communique claimed the Israelis lost 18 dead on Saturday, the first day of the operation. The communique also said eight Lebanese soldiers were killed, 12 wounded and 20 missing.

The Israelis said they searched 16 Arab villages during the operation and air force jets bombed and rocketed eight guerrilla encampments and two headquarters complexes.

The raids were a reprisal for the killing of 11 Israeli Olympic team members at Munich and guerrilla raids in recent weeks across the Lebanese border, which have resulted in killing of at least three soldiers.

"I can assure you we will pursue and root out the terrorists wherever they may be," Prime Minister Golda Meir declared in a radio speech at the beginning of Yom Kippur.

While claiming over-all success, Israel said the unexpected resistance from regular Lebanese army units was the strongest defense they have put up since the 1967 Mideast war.

"We are not fighting the Lebanese army," an Israeli commander told his troops before they entered Lebanon, according to a dispatch from newsmen with the troops.

Nevertheless, seven miles inside Lebanon, after passing up one Lebanese army check point which offered no resistance, Israelis in armoured cars and tanks came under recoilless rifle fire.

At least six Lebanese army vehicles were damaged or destroyed along one road near Beit Yahoun, Associated Press correspondent Harry Dunphy reported after a tour of the area.

Israel did not disclose the number of its troops involved in the operation, but Dunphy said as many as 40 tanks and armored personnel carriers rolled across Lebanon's hills at one entry point, indicating perhaps 100 vehicles were involved in the entire operation.

"About 80 to 100 Israelis came in early Saturday morning, stayed through the night and began to leave about 3 o'clock," a villager in Juwayya, where two buildings were blown up by the Israelis, said. "The three persons who were killed here were innocent. They weren't involved in politics. Just farmers."

The troops spent Saturday night in Lebanon and returned to Israel Sunday. But they had to make one final stop at a Lebanese gas station where some of the vehicles refilled their tanks. Others were towed across the border with their gas tanks empty.

Many of the soldiers returned to Israel just in time to celebrate Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement. The state radio shut down for 27 hours, traffic nearly halted at sundown Sunday and many cities looked like ghost towns. Airline flights also were canceled.

The Israeli incursions prompted the Lebanese government to declare a state of emergency and censorship was ordered on all news dispatches sent out of the country.

Al Fatah guerrillas in Syria claimed the Lebanese government ordered all the guerrillas to leave inhabited areas and to stop circulating in uniforms and with arms. But Premier Saeb Salam denied his government had given the guerrillas any sort of ultimatum restricting their actions.

Lebanon and the guerrillas worked out an agreement in 1970 giving them freedom to operate from the mountainous southern areas near Israel.

In Cairo, the authoritative newspaper Al Ahram proposed an Arab summit in Beirut to deal with the Israeli raids. The paper's editor, Mohamed Hassanein Heikal, a confidant of President Anwar Sadat of Egypt, expressed shock at the seeming indifference on the part of Arabs to the Israeli action.

In Moscow, Tass said the Soviet government branded the raids "a dangerous escalation of aggression" that "creates a danger to peace and security."

The United Nations General Assembly convenes Tuesday and the Middle East will be one of the major items on its agenda, with particular emphasis on combating terrorism and the Palestinian refugees.

Secretary General Kurt Waldheim has released a report promising to keep up efforts to work for a Middle East peace. The report detailed the recent activities of Swedish Ambassador Gunnar Jarring, for almost five years the secretary-general's special representative to work on a settlement to the Arab-Israeli dispute.

"In spite of our continued efforts," Waldheim wrote, "it has not been possible to make any substantial progress. Despite this situation, we shall continue our efforts."

Jarring, Stockholm's ambassador to Moscow, is expected in New York soon where he can discuss the Mideast with key foreign ministers on hand for opening of the General Assembly.

Ulett Resigns As Director Of Mental Health

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Dr. George A. Ulett has resigned as director of the state Mental Health Division to go back to psychiatric teaching and research.

David Skeer, chairman of the commission, called Ulett's tenure "a decade of progress" and expressed regret at losing him.

Skeer cited many expansions of the mental health program under Ulett. Many of them made it a period of controversy in the legislature.

Currently, Ulett is on leave to study schizophrenia in children in Denmark. He has been back in Missouri for three weeks while Dr. Harold P. Robb, the acting director, was on vacation.

Are you a hazard to your wealth?

Everytime you hold your paycheck in your hot little hand, you promise yourself to salt something away. But man is weak. And what you want today seems a lot more important than worrying about what you'll need tomorrow.

Quit kidding yourself.

Join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. It's easy. Just specify an amount you want set aside from your paycheck. Then that money is used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds. You never see the money, so the temptation to spend it is removed. And with every paycheck, your money grows. So when you need it, you'll find you've got a sizeable amount stashed away. Enough to help out with what tomorrow may bring.

If you can't trust yourself, trust U.S. Savings Bonds. Then you'll have a fund in your future.

Now E Bonds pay 5% interest when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen, or destroyed. When needed they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Ann Landers

Allergy Breaks Up Romance

Dear Ann Landers: I have a ridiculous problem and I am plenty disgusted with myself. I can't talk to my parents because I'm too ashamed. You are the only one I can turn to.

I am male, 16 years old, and as you will soon discover, I'm a rotten kid. I have a double hernia caused by masturbation. I can't take a chance of receiving a letter from you so I am begging you to give me some advice through the column. Please help me. ——No Good

Dear Friend: Where in the world did you get the idea that a hernia can be caused by masturbation? Self-manipulation is a normal part of growing up. About 99% of all normal boys and 90% of all normal girls first become aware of their sex drives by experimenting in this manner.

If you are having physical discomfort in the groin I urge you to see a doctor at once. Your ignorance is appalling, son. And what is even more frightening is that there are millions of kids running loose who know as little as you. I suggest that you get my book, "Ann Landers Talks to Teen-Agers About Sex." It is available in paperback for 75c. Write to Fawcett Publications, Inc., Dept. A., Greenwich, Connecticut 06830. The proceeds of this sale will go to retarded children.

Dear Ann Landers: I was interested in your comment to the young woman who lost her boyfriend because he was allergic to her cat. It seems the fellow simply dropped her and she never knew why until a mutual friend inadvertantly mentioned it. Your reply hinted you didn.t believe it was the real reason. It's O.K. to seek hidden motives, Ann, but when you said, "Love overcomes all allergies," I decided to straighten you out. LOVE does NOT overcome all allergies and I am living proof.

I had to break my engagement to a wonderful man because I was allergic to his perspiration. He did not perspire profusely, just the normal amount, but that's all it took to make me break out with giant hives. I should tell you that the perspiring occurred mostly during our romantic interludes. The cause for my allergy was established by a specialist who pinpointed the trouble after weeks of laboratory tests.

That was ten years ago and I'm still unmarried but I'm NOT unhappy. Prayer has filled the place in my life that I mistakenly believed had to be filled by a man. ——Eagle Rock, Alabama

Dear Rock: Some allergies can be a friend. You didn't really want to marry that man. I suspect your feelings of guilt about the sexual aspects soured the relationship. The hives saved you from what might have been a disastrous marriage. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: Thank you for providing a new definition of "grace under pressure." When I read that you were sure it meant Her Serenne Highness Princess Grace of Monoco wearing her 1952 girdle I nearly fell out of my chair. You make the newspaper for me, Dimples. Sometimes I get my only laugh of the day from your column. Don't ever change. ---An admirer in New York

Dear Ad: I couldn't if I wanted to. Thanks for the day-brightener.

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell me what could happen to me if I let a friend of mine who is a hairdresser borrow my cosmetologist license on the one day of the year when he gets word that the State Inspector is coming around. I know I shouldn't do it, but if you will tell me what might happen to me I'll be able to say "No" and mean it. Much obliged. ---Ohio Weakling

Dear O: The hairdresser who "lends" his license to a friend runs the risk of losing it. Each case is reviewed by a local Beauty Culture Committee. This committee decides whether the offender should be put on probation or have his license revoked permanently.

What's prudish? What's O.K.? If you aren't sure, you need some help. It's available in the booklet: "Necking and Petting --What Are the Limits?" Mail your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper, enclosing 50c in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Book Provides Women With New Roll Models

NEW YORK (AP) — Joyce Teitz could have written about herself.

After all, she's the person-ification of a liberated woman — 28-years-old, the graduate of Harvard law school who successfully coordinated the Coalition Against the SST in Washington, D.C.

But when Miss Teitz wanted to offer models of liberated women in book form, she chose to write about others — a broadcast journalist, lawyer, physician, oceanographer, physicist, company president, campaign committee chairman, economist, foreign service officer, systems analyst and writer. The result is, "What's a Nice Girl Like You Doing in a Place Like This?"

Here for a brief visit, Miss Teitz explained why she wrote her book. "When I started working, I found other working women who were admirable, and who had satisfying personal lives, but who weren't emasculating, as liberated women were said to be. I thought then how helpful it would have been to have had models like that earlier. So one point was to provide role models for women, and another was, indirectly, to congratulate women who have worked all along.

"I felt it was important to go step by step," she continues. "I wanted a personal approach to show the women were real people."

The liberated women Miss Teitz wrote about do not know each other. Eight are married, six have children and only two are actively involved in the feminist movement. Their lives are different, but according to Miss Teitz, who spent three months interviewing her subjects, they share several qualities.

Job's Daughters Meet

Job's Daughters, Bethel No. 27 held their first meeting Saturday at 6 p.m. in the Masonic Temple. Miss Leslie Cox, junior custodian, was installed by the honored queen, Marsha Dement.

Mrs. Ruth Adkisson, guardian of Bethel 61, of Charleston, installed the executive council: guardian, Mrs. Edith Grimes; associate guardian Acquilla Grimes; and secretary, Miss Lucille Mount.

The associate council was also installed: director of sociability, Mrs. Carroll McAfee, and director of finance, Charles Jack Grimes. Miss Becky McCloskey, honored queen, Bethel 61 of Charleston was installing secretary.

A parent-planning board has been formed and it met for its first meeting Saturday night. The board will meet again Sept. 23 at 5 p.m. Parents of the Job's Daughters are invited to attend.

Millionaire H.L. Hunt Believes In Creeping

DALLAS (AP) — H. L. Hunt, one of the world's richest men, popped a date into his mouth and smiled around it. "I'm a crank about creeping," he said.

Creeping?

"You get down on all fours and walk on your hands and knees," the 83-year-old health fan explained. He promptly dropped down to the floor of his antique dining room to demonstrate.

"You see, you look at your little finger of each hand as you walk the hand forward and that turns your head side to side. It's natural exercise, like when you were an ape," he said.

He chuckled and his wife, Ruth, looked concerned. Hunt was creeping around the breakfast table so fast the photographer couldn't focus on him. He didn't even put on his creeping knee pads, just dropped to the floor in his blue pin stripe suit.

"She doesn't creep," Hunt said of his wife when he returned to his breakfast plate. He munched grapes, pecans, dates and an apricot, and drank fruit juices and bouillon.

"Creeping is probably the second best exercise in the world next to swimming. It's perfect," Hunt said.

"I creep about two to three minutes a day, several times a day," he explained. He also has yoga lessons twice a week and maintains a strict health food regimen of pure foods.

"Ya-hoo," he called and an assistant came in with a date for everyone at the table. Hunt, a leading oil producer and food processing magnate, munched a pecan himself and said, "I used to be the world's number one soft shell pecan grower. I suppose I still am. I eat them instead of meat."

An aid, or his wife, gives Hunt an assist from chairs since he hurt his back in a bathtub fall several years ago. It was then he took up yoga to strengthen his back musles. Now he can walk without his back harness.

He works six days a week, staying active from 7 a.m. to 10:30 p.m.

At 83, Hunt tends to ramble from talking about health food interests: his sons, his famous checker playing ability, his long crusade against Communism, his dog Muffin ("He can understand nearly everything you say to him.").

He spoke slowly, deliberately. Sometimes he would pause to think, to run his hand over his thin white hair. Then his blue eyes twinkled and he said, "I have lots of money and so they call me the "Bilionaire Health Cran.' Heh, heh, heh.

"I'll be 84 February 17th. The Soviets have a picture I've seen of a man they say is 167. I think I'll manage to live to as ripe an age as their man."

And then he took his wife's arm and headed off to work.

Stores Make It Easier To Decorate

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

It is getting easier to be your own decorator as more manufacturers and stores lend a hand with do-it-yourself pamphlets and decorating advice.

Now another assist is available, with a decorating course to be given in the fall at more than 200 Sears stores. Eight lessons and a textbook compiled by top-notch professionals are expected to give a homemaker confidence to try her hand at some home projects, and to equip her with the knowledge to collaborate with a decorator, if that is what she wants. Each store will use decorating experts from its area to teach the home decorating course.

The most puzzling aspects of decorating — color, lighting, accessories, furniture styles and their origins — are explained in a basic way.

One of the best known experts in the field of textiles, Dorothy Liebes, provides the chapter on color. Her course explains that color is a psychological force — for example, sensations in response to color make us happier on a bright, sunny day when light and color vibrations lift our spirits.

In choosing a palette (she prefers to select from light, dark, bright colors) a logical pattern should be followed. The basic color scheme might evolve from existing climatic and regional conditions, and be built around possessions and the family pattern of living. Colors should be suited to the woman of the house and pleasing to her husband in Miss Liebes opinion.

Good lighting must focus on artificial light, lighting innovator Robert Sonneman emphasizes in his lesson on lighting. Glare must be avoided because "as glare increases, the ability to see decreases."

In addition to pointers on quality, color and intensity of light and color and its reflections, charts illustrate the reflective value of colors. Sonneman also explains:

. . . Human flesh tones are more flattering in incandescent light, the red end of the spectrum . . . people often sacrifice lighting function for what they feel is aesthetic appeal.

. . . There is a proper way to light each area of the home.

. . . Colors of walls and ceiling affect the level of illumination in a room — white walls reflect about 75 per cent of available light; dark brown or black might reflect 5 to 15 per cent. Walls serve best when they are in the 35 to 60 per cent range.

. . . Lighting used for makeup should be as color true and close to sunlight as possible . . . in the bedroom it should be soft indirect illumination.

Planning accessories gives one a real chance for personal liberation in home decorating, the textbook points out in a lesson from Lawrence Peabody, well-known designer of furniture and accessories. Accessories can be used to control space in creating a harmonious effect. Unity of color can help to achieve it.

Trends Picked A Year In Advance By Fashion Pro

NEW YORK (AP) — Virginia Sorem's job is to publish 12 books a year showing fashions women will want to buy. Sounds easy enough, but there's one hitch — she has to work over a year ahead of time — forecasting fashion trends long before clothes are off the designers' sketch pads, much less in the stores.

How does she do it? The fashion coordinator, catalog division of JC Penney Co. explains: "I talk to a lot of fashion sources, read a lot of domestic periodicals and go to all the fashion showings. Just looking at people helps. And I'm familiar with the mark-down racks at the stores — what hasn't sold. Fashion makes sense, too. You don't have to be the smartest graduate of Radcliffe to know that certain seasons will bring on certain colors and styles."

Mrs. Sorem, a bright blue-eyed woman, with a trim tailored look, wryly notes that, "there are no erasers in a catalogue," so she has to be sure she knows what she's talking about. She's quick to point out that her work is a team effort, but nevertheless, she's the one who is responsible for the $11 million in paper and $2 million in ink alone that go into those catalogs each year.

The way fashion trends are born has changed in the past 10 years, Mrs. Sorem says. "There used to be a filtering down process," she points out.

"The couture houses in Paris would originate trends that would then find their way across the ocean to New York City and the expensive stores on 57th Street. Eventually, those same looks would end up at the cheaper stores, but it was months after the original had appeared in Europe.

"This started changing a decade ago," she goes on. "People in the United States needed clothes to wear for their active lives. In England, there was an uprising of youth. Fashions started coming from the young people on the streets. As a result, trends today come from all over the world."

According to this fashion expert, today's look has two main ingredients — individuality and a casual manner. "Women don't want to all look alike," Mrs. Sorem says. "Now they can buy separates, put them together and change the look for a job, or for a date."

She attributes this individuality partly to the ill-fated midi skirt. "When designers tried to foist the midi off on women, and found it didn't work, they realized they couldn't make women buy something just to be fashionable. We don't wear our sleeves the same length, so why should women have to wear their skirts the same length?

"The casual look can be misunderstood," she goes on. "It doesn't mean torn sneakers. It can actually mean elegant, and the same care and planning should go into a casual look as it does into a formal one. It does mean a life style that fits what we're doing today, with do's and don'ts replaced by politeness and consideration."

Mrs. Sorem became interested in fashion at an early age. At 14, she was a model in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area where she grew up. She attended the University of Minnesota, but says with a laugh, "I was absolutely uninterested in the whole thing." She married, moved to New York City, had two daughters and stayed at home until the youngest was in school all day.

"All that time, though, I was planning what I was going to do," she says. She worked in commercial photography for eight years before joining Penney in 1962.

Although declining to be specific about her fashion forecasts — "That would be giving information away to the competition" — Mrs. Sorem is willing to talk in general terms about future fashion trends:

"There has been a marked trend towards menswear fabrics for years," she says. "Men have always had a neat, tailored look, so women have taken what is attractive about that style. You didn't have to be very smart to know that meant a layered look, with chunky-heeled shoes.

"Now the signs are out for a softer look, in two piece outfits and pants. I do think dresses will make a comeback, like the short cocktail dress. In 1973 there is going to be a different look for shoes and sleeves. And women will wear their shirts open at the collar — with just a hint of jewelry showing."

Infant's Cry Provides Help In Diagnosis

NEW YORK (AP) — Does your new baby seem to cry too often? — or does he strain to cry but make very little sound?

A pediatrician specializing in congenital disorders believes an infant's cry can provide valuable help in diagnosing problems such as cretinism, central nervous system damage and congenital heart disease — and has authored a new cassette tape program to train other pediatricians in this method.

"So many disorders result in a characteristic cry — or a crying impairment — that physicians examining an infant should make him cry at some point in the examination, if he doesn't do so spontaneously," explains Dr. Murray Feingold, director of the Center for Genetic Counseling and Birth Defect Evaluation at the Boston Floating Hospital for Infants and Children.

"The sound of an infant's cry offers audible confirmation of many rather rare disorders most practicing pediatricians don't see very often," says Feingold. "Most of these disorders are some form of mental retardation — such as cri du chat ('cry of the cat'), hypothyroidism, etc. Other ones may indicate some larynx deformity.

"The examining physician should observe the quality of an infant's cry, the effort involved in crying and the ease with which the infant can be made to cry," Feingold said.

"The pitch of a normal infant's cry isn't screechy," he elaborated. "Intensity varies as the baby inhales, cries, and then trails off as the baby runs out of breath. When he's angry or upset the volume tends to be louder than when he's merely uncomfortable."

Contrasting with normal infant cries, the cries of infants with central nervous system damage have almost a "spine-chilling" quality, Feingold observes.

"Children with central nervous system damage usually cry with a high-pitched, shrill, shrieky sound," he said. "The intensity may not be loud — the distinguishing characteristic is the pitch."

Babies suffering from hypothyroidism (cretinism) seldom cry spontaneously, and may be difficult to make cry — and when they do, the sound is generally hoarse, low intensity and low pitched.

"If the parent says the baby doesn't cry often, snap the bottom of its foot," Feingold counsels pediatricians in his Medcom self-teaching tape.

According to Feingold, variations in the physical effort of a baby to cry should be noted and included in the diagnosis, as well as the audible qualities of the cry itself.

"First of all, the physician should discuss the baby's crying habits with the parent," he said.

"How often does he cry — too often? — not as often as normal? And how hard is it to make the baby cry? These are all very subjective questions, of course. But they are factors which should be included as a routine part of an infant examination."

If your child has some object in his throat and is choking, turn him upside down, hold him by the legs or ankles and slap his back vigorously.

Nun Drops Out Finds It Hard

LONDON (AP) — When a nun drops out, where can she land?

That was the question Patricia Marshall asked herself after leaving the convent of the Good Shepherd Sisters, an order dedicated to the rehabilitation of delinquent girls.

The answer, she discovered, was often no answer — in a lonely one-room apartment, a clockwork job, an emotional desert.

Today Patricia Marshall — now Mrs. Patricia Worden, wife of a management consultant — is the first administrative head of New Bearings, an official counseling organization formed last year for nuns and priests leaving the Roman Catholic church.

For Mrs. Worden, the return to lay life in 1965 after five cloistered years was "not too bad."

"I was only 26 and my parents, both Catholics, were very helpful," she says. "I took it in my stride, I think. Also I had some training — a psychology degree from Cork University and personnel experience in industry."

Others, however, have found a new life more difficult.

New Bearings, run by a 10-member committee including one bishop and three university lecturers, has received some 30 appeals for help already this year. And this, Mrs. Worden stresses, constitutes only a small proportion of the total number of men and women leaving their orders.

Of these 30, most were men.

"Sisters on the whole tend to be a bit more practical about things," Mrs. Worden says. "They usually have qualifications of some sort and don't find the same job problems as men.

"Nor are they so prone to loneliness. They are not like priests who have been set apart, put on a pedestal. Convent life is very busy — in fact there is often a feeling of wanting to be by oneself, to be lonely."

Reasons for quitting the church are numerous, she says. Some want to marry. Some feel hamstrung by the institutional church. Others feel it has progressed too far too quickly.

The hardest people to fit, according to Mrs. Worden, are the older ones. Half a lifetime of poverty, chastity and obedience is no ticket to success in a competitive consumer society.

Younger men can be trained for social work and teaching, or may enter industry or government. Older men are less marketable, less hopeful.

"Perhaps there isn't sufficient motivation to undertake a three-year training course when you're 55," says Mrs. Worden. "Generally they are not ambitious. They're just looking for something steady and regular — some do clerical work, even dishwashing."

Not all applicants to New Bearings are British. Many letters come from countries like Ireland, Spain and Italy.

New Bearings has no measure of its success. It has no yardstick to go by, no statistics to consider. It refers everyone somewhere, but is seldom told where — if — they land.

"But," says Mrs. Worden, who is awaiting the birth of her second child, "I am always on the end of the telephone wire if anyone needs help."

"Some stretch pants have no other choice."

Date For State 4-H Day Announced

COLUMBIA — High school youths from all over the state will converge on Columbia and University of Missouri April 16 for the 26th State 4-H Day competition.

Since 1946, the contest has been held on the university campus. This year's events will begin at 9:30 a.m. April 16, and end around 4 p.m.

The youths, ranging in age from 14 to 19, will compete for top awards in seven categories. The contests are a culmination of innovative and creative work that demonstrates individual accomplishments in one of the seven areas. They enter their work in dress revue, public speaking for boys, public speaking for girls, skilled operators' tractor event, dairy judging, livestock judging, meat judging and poultry judging.

State winners generally have completed at least three years in 4-H. Their projects may have taken from one year to complete to maintaining a three-year-record in the project which relates to the program entered.

Prizes for the winners range from $50 U.S. savings bonds on the state level to competing in national competition in Chicago where they might win a $700 scholarship.

80-Year-Old Man Participates In Swimming Contest

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP) — A crowd of 3,000 rooted for the last finisher is the 42nd annual one-mile rough-water ocean swim.

He was Lionel Pedley, who finished in 213th place Sunday, 59 minutes and 13 seconds behind the winning time of 21 minutes, 53 seconds.

"But so what," a spectator commented. "At his age he was a winner when he stepped into the water."

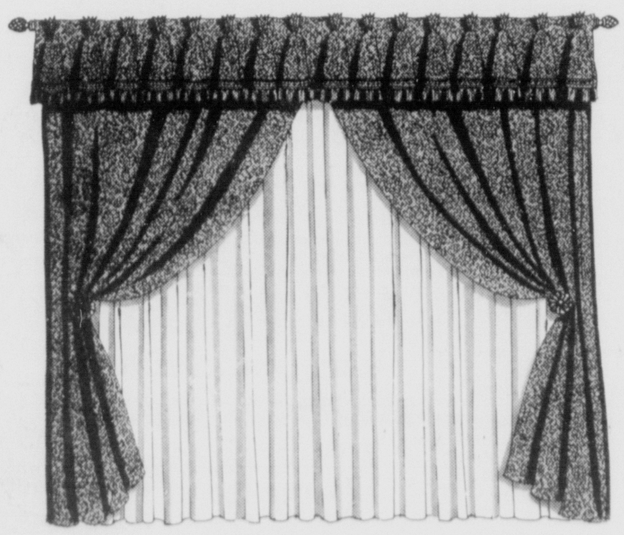

Pedley, a retired civil engineer, is 80.

Pedley said later it was his second try at the race. He finished fifth in 1961. "But I was younger then, you understand," he said.

SeMo Loses , 7-6

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Good Neighbor Doctrine may have lost a few followers among Missouri small college football teams over the weekend.

Missouri teams lost 7 of 11 games against out-of-state opposition. The Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association was particularly hard hit, falling victim to foes from Arkansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Kansas.

In fact, MIAA clubs lost five of six games while league-leader Northeast was idle. Lincoln was the lone winner, posting a 15-6 triumph over Langston, Okla., in its opener.

State College of Arkansas tapped Central, 21-14; Nebraska-Omaha outran Northwest, 45-18; Central State of Edmond, Okla., rolled to a 39-18 conquest of Southwest, and MU-Rolla fell 21-7 victim to Pittsburg State, Kan. Southeast dropped a 7-6 decision to independent Missouri Southern.

On the bright side, independent Washington University of St. Louis bowed in with a 30-7 lashing of University of the South, from Sewanee, Tenn.; William Jewell of the Heart of America Conference posted a 17-12 conquest of Simpson, Iowa, and Missouri Valley of the HOA nudged Iowa Wesleyan, 13-6.

Independent Missouri Southern joined Northeast as the only clubs in the state with 2-0 records by edging Southeast.

In other games involving independents, Washburn, Kan., crushed Western 58-3, and Culver-Stockton was a 28-26 loser to Central Methodist.

In the HOA, Peru State, Neb., joined the rude host set by tumbling Tarkio, 15-13.

William Jewell, posting its second straight triumph after a season-opening loss, got a oneman show from sophomore Weader Millentree. He scored all fht eCardinal points on an 80-yard pass from Steve Burton, a 52-yard TD run, a 26yard field goal and two conversions.

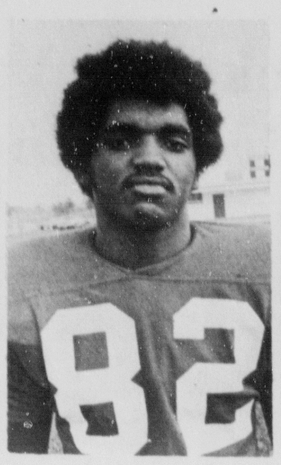

Central Methodist jarred Culver-Stockton when senior quarterback Jim Stamos completed his third touchdown pass 15 seconds from the end. Stamos passed for 345 yards as the Eagles evened their record at 1-1.

Junior tailback Jim Albin had another big game for Northwest, rushing for 134 yards and two touchdowns despite missing the third quarter with an injury. But he couldn't match the five-touchdown outburst by Nebraska-Omaha's Charlie McWhorter, who gobbled up 139 infantry yards and got three of his TDs in the decisive final quarter.

Tony Chandler sparked Missouri Valley, rushing for 145 yards in 22 carries and scoring both Viking touchdowns, on runs of 10 and 20 yards.

Lincoln let Langston score first, then came back with James Lang's 47-yard touchdown strike to Phil Doolin and a 60-yard punt return by Willie Burks. A Langston end-around attempt was halted in the end zone for a safety.

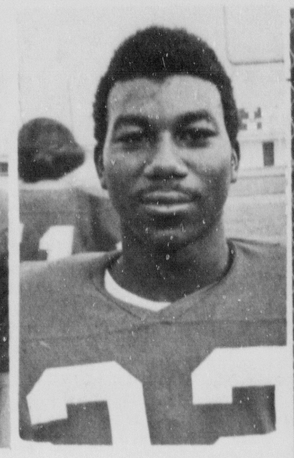

It's perfectly safe to put hot things, right off the range, into the refrigerator.

Shane Wagoner, DT

Jesse Smith, B

Field Goal Dooms Charleston Hopes

PERRYVILLE -- Charles Vogel booted a 33-yard field goal with a minute and 47 seconds remaining to give the St Vincent Indians a 3-0 victory over Charleston in a Southeast Missouri high school football game played Saturday afternoon.

Charleston displayed a tenacious defense, three times holding the Indians away from the goal line after plunging inside the 10- yard stripe.

Coach Joe Black's Bluejays threatened the Tribe's goal twice from inside the 10, but couldn't move the host's big defense and twice had big gainers called back because of penalties.

The Bluejays outrushed their opponents, 122-77, but it would likely have been another story had it not been for a big 64- yard play in the opening quarter.

Charleston lost its season- opening contest against Hayti 36-21. The Bluejays visit Sikeston Friday night to encounter the arch- rival Bulldogs in a Northern Division league game.

CHARLESTON'S Keith Quertermous (11) dives for an interception against the St. Vincent Indians at Perryville Saturday afternoon after the pass eluded Eddie Siegmund (5). The Tribe won the game, 3-0, and dropped CHS to an 0-2 record for the season. The Bluejays visit Sikeston Friday.

Cards Prolong Pirates' Clincher

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Is Pittsburgh Manager Bill Virdon at all worried about winning the pennant, especially after dropping three straight to the Cardinals.

"I'm certainly not alarmed, not when we have 28 games in which to pick up three victories or have the Cubs lose three," he said Sunday, after the Pirates 5-4 loss to St. Louis.

While Pittsburgh zeros in on its third straight pennant, Roberto Clemente is nearing the 3,000 hit goal. He's only ten away. Might he reach his goal before the Pirates clinch the flag?

"I'd hate to wait that long," Virdon said. Although he might get those ten in a hurry."

Virdon explained the three losses philosophically, noting the Pirates had just beaten the Cubs three straight. "These things often happen after you've had a big series."

Ted Sizemore looped a tworun singled in the sixth inning to break a 3-3 tie and enable pitcher Reggie Cleveland to bring his record to 14-14. Cleveland had lost 9 of his last 10 starts.

The Cards scored twice in the first inning, one run scoring on a fly out and another batted in by Ted Simmons. Simmons doubled home another run in the third.

Pittsburgh scored two in the sixth to tie the game, on a triple to center by Manny Sanguillen with Willie Stargell and Rich Hebner aboard.

Sizemore's hit, to send the Cards two ahead, came after Bernie Carbo beat out an infield hit, Ken Reitz did the same, and Lou Brock walked. Pittsburgh scored its final run in the ninth when Al Oliver scored on a wild pitch by Diego Segui, who relieved for Cleveland.

The loser was Bob Miller (52) who replaced starter Bob Johnson.

IOWA CITY, Iowa AP —The University of Iowa football squad has lost the services of speedy tailback Craig Johnson for the remainder of the season.

Johnson suffered a shoulder separation in Saturday's 21 -0 loss to Ohio State.

Team Physician, Dr. Harley Feldick, said Sunday that Johnson would have to undergo surgery Monday.

Johnson, a senior, rushed for only 14 yards before being injured.

DRUMMONDVILLE, Que. AP —The Atlanta Flames, one of two new National Hockery League franchises this season, defeated the other newcomer, the New York Islanders, 4 —1 in an exhibition contest Sunday.

USC Gains 986 Yards

"They are ranked No. 1 and they played like a No. 1 team."

So said Oregon State's Dee Andros after powerful Southern California completed its first week as college football's top -rated team with a 51 -6 rout Saturday night, outgaining the Beavers 670 yards -354 rushing, 316 passing -to 92 and recovering five of the losers' seven fumbles.

And despite the score, the Trojans didn't roll it up.

"It was just a matter of Oregon State being a young team," said USC's John McKay. "We just had too many advantages. We suited up 50 players and everybody played, even some of the reserves in the second quarter."

By halftime, Southern Cal had a 20 -6 lead, with Red McNeill scoring all three touchdown on runs of 14, two and five yards. McNeill gained 117 yards while quarterback Mike Rae completed 12 of 19 passes for 248 yards and one score and second -stringer Pat Haden scored one TD and passed for another.

Second -ranked Colorado kept pace with Southern Cal by trouncing Cincinnati 56 -14 while third -rated Ohio State and No. 4 Oklahoma opened their seasons with shutout triumphs - 21 -0 over Iowa and 49 -0 over Utah State, respectively.

Alabama, rated fifth, was idle while No. 7 Tennessee out -lasted No. 6 Penn State 28 -21 in the only match -up of Top Ten teams. UCLA, No. 8, held off Pitt 38 -28, ninth -rated Louisiana State debuted with a 31 -13 victory over Pacific and Nebraska's defending national champions, who skidded from first to 10th after losing to UCLA a week ago, started the long road back with a 37 -7 whomping of Texas A&M.

Colorado broke Ken Johnson, Charlie Davis, and Bo Matthews loose for 314 of its 473 rushing yards and four of its eight touchdowns against Cincinnati.

Ohio State combined strong running by fullbacks Randy Keith 81 yards and Champ Henson 79 yards and a defense that kept Iowa off the scoreboard as Woody Hayes began his 22nd campaign at the helm of the Buckeyes.

Oklahoma was worried about a successor for Whishbone quarterback Jack Mildren but Dave Robertson got the Sooners rolling against Utah State with a 44 -yard scoring pass to John Carroll and his replacement, freshman Kerry Jackson, was the leading ground -gainer with 109 of Oklahoma's 412 rushing yards. All —American halfback Greg Pruitt scored three times on short runs.

Tennessee got touchdown gallops of 41 and three yards from Haskel Stanback and raced to a 21 —0 halftime lead over Penn State before John Hufnagel rallied the Nittany Lions with a pair of scoring passes. Stanback's third TD, a two -yard run in the final period that capped an 80 -yard drive, put the game out of reach.

UCLA got one touchdown from each member of its starting backfield -short runs by Mark Harmen, James McAlister and Gary Campblee and an 80 -yard scamper by Kermit Johnson -plus a 63 -yard scorind dash by second -string quarterback Rob Scribner in beating Pitt.

Louisiana State, down by 7 —0 in the first minute when Pacific recovered a blocked punt in the end zone, got three touchdowns from Jimmy LeDeux and two scoring passes from Bert Jones and won easily. LeDoux did all his scoring in the first half as LSU rolled up a 24 -7 lead .

Angry Nebraska took it out on Texas A&M with 252 yards rushing and 266 passing as sophomore quarterback Dave Humm scored twice and passes for a third touchdown.

"They were No. 1 in the pre -season polls and they are still among the finest football teams in the country," said Coach Emery Bellard of the losers.

The biggest upset of the day -or was it? —came when Bowling Green stunned 18th ranked Purdue 17 -14 on Don Taylor's 29 -yard field goal in the final period.

"Our kids came into the game believing they could win," said Coach Don Nehlen. "I can't actually think it was an upset under those conditions."

Elsewhere among Second Ten teams, No. 11 Michigan nosed out Northwestern 7 —0 on a 21 -yard pass from Dennis Franklin, the Wolverines' first black quarterback, to Bo Rather: Sonny Sixkiller returned from an ankle injury and threw a 45 -yard touchdown pass to Tom Scott as No. 12 Washington beat Duke 14 -6 and No. 13 Arizona State outlasted Houston 33- 28 with Dan White lefting scoring passes of 55 and 52 yards to Steve Holden and Woody Green gaining 195 on the ground.

Georgia, ranked 16th, struggled past Baylor 24 -14 although the Bears won the statistics with 20 first downs to 12 and 341 yards to 267.

Norris Weese led No. 19 Mississippi past Memphis State 34 -29 by passing for three touchdowns and scoring two and No. 20 Florida state trimmed Miami, Fla. 37 -14 as Gary Huff threw for 329 yards and four TDs.

Rookie Leads Big Red Upset

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tim Van Galder has qualified for the National Football League's pension plan for players.

It could mean a lot larger pension than the one he'd have gotten if he had remained in the Army.

The 28-year-old rookie—by NFL rules—directed the St. Louis Cardinals to a 10-3 upset of the Baltimore Colts Sunday as pro football began its 1972 season.

"Not only was this my first regular season start, it qualified me for the NFL pension," explained Van Galder, who upstaged one of the game's old pros, Johnny Unitas. He spent three years on St. Louis' taxi squad and two years in the Army before getting into a regular season game.

In Sunday's other games, the Miami Dolphins defeated the Kansas City Chiefs 20-10; the Atlanta Falcons bombed the Chicago Bears 37-21; the Green Bay Packers upset the Cleveland Browns 26-10; Cincinnati's Bengals clouted the New England Patriots 31-7; the Los Angeles Rams routed the New Orleans Saints 34-14.

The Detroit Lions whipped the New York Giants 30-16; the New York Jets jolted the Buffalo Bills 41-24; the Pittsburgh Steelers thumped the Oakland Raiders 34-28; the Dallas Cowboys thrashed the Philadelphia Eagles 28-6; the San Francisco 49ers beat the San Diego Chargers 34-3; and the Denver Broncos clipped the Houston Oilers 30-17.

Coach George Allen, who has never lost an opening game, sends his Washington Redskins to Minnesota tonight for a nationally televised game, winding up the first of 14 weekends of NFL action.

Van Galder's statistics from the Cardinal-Colt game weren't very impressive—10 of 15 passes for 110 yards. But he connected with a 71-yard toss to Jacky Smith in the third quarter on a play which led to Donny Anderson's four-yard gamewinning touchdown run.

Baltimore's Unitas threw 36 times, completing 22 for 257 yards. It put Unitas' total passing figures for his 17 seasons as a pro over 22 miles.

"Mistakes, Mistakes," muttered Don McCafferty, the Colt coach. "We made mistakes and the Cardinals didn't."

Now for a quick look at the other games:

APPROPRIATIONS COMMITTEE HEMS, HAWS, PASSES EMERGENCY BILL

JEFFERSON CITY -- At one point last week, a reporter in the press room at the State Capitol summed up the activities of the House Appropriations Committee whis way:

"Only God knows what they're going to do."

What they finally did was send a bill to the House calling for appropriations totaling $21.1 million, $2.4 million less than the $23.5 million requested by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, but the reporter's consternation was understandable.

A special session, called by Gov. Hearnes to consider an emergency appropriations bill, had convened on Sept. 6. The bill was assigned to the appropriations committee which, in a surprise move, tabled the measure on the second day of the session.

The committee released the vote on the motion to table, 17-10, but no other information was forthcoming from the closed session.

"I don't think it's fair to the other committee members if I say how I voted or how anyone else voted," said Rep. Guss Salley (R-Warsaw) after the meeting. "We made an agreement not to talk about our actions."

On Sept. 13, after a series of closed sessions and caucuses and two full meetings of the House in which there was no business to transact, the emergency appropriations bill was released. The committee vote was 25-8 with three members absent.

The only reason publicly advanced for the delay was given by the appropriations committee chairman, E.J. (Lucky) Cantrell, who said the legislators were unhappy about being called into special session. The committee members, he said, did not regard the budget requests as truly emergency in nature, and that they could wait until the regular session in January.

Cuts made by the appropriations committee included $800,000 from the governors request for refunding student fee increases at the University of Missouri. The committee originally had trimmed the entire $1.6 million allocated for fee refunds. But after the House Democrats caucused on the measure, the committee met again and voted to restore half of the original cut.

The appropriations committee also lopped off funds earmarked for the director of the revenue department, the comptroller's office and the Department of Corrections.

The state public defender program had almost $400,000 trimmed from Gov. Hearnes $1.02 million request. The appropriations committee recommended that only $628,374 be allocated from the general revenue fund for the public defender system. The remainder of the new allocation must come from local funds and grants from the Law Enforcement Assistance Council.

A new program to provide scholarships for needy students in private and public schools was cut by almost $800,000.

Among the items untouched by the committee were raises for directors of a few state agencies, employes and judges that are above the federal 5.5 per cent wage guidelines and a plan to rebuild the west end of the Capitol at a cost of more than $1 million.

The committee also let stand other University of Missouri appropriations totaling almost $2 million.

Cantrell and House majority leader Richard Rabbitt (D-St. Louis) pleaded for Democrats to unite behind the new bill, but rough sledding was predicted. About 40 amendments were expected to be introduced in the House.

The Prayer

from the Upper Room

The Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us. (John 1:14) PRAYER: Father, we would always be aware of Your presence and remember that You cared about us enough to be at home with us. Thank You for coming to us where we are, not just reaching down to us. We can come to You as we are; through Christ our Savior. Amen.

Gas Hike Permanent

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Public Service Commission has made permanent a $602,000 rate hike it had granted earlier on an interim basis to Missouri Natural Gas Co.

The interim rates had been in effect since July, 1970, pending an investigation. The company had requested an increase of $716,500 originally.

The cost and rate of return figures were agreed to Thursday by the utility and PSC staff.

Missouri Natural Gas serves customers in Butler, Iron, Madison, Jefferson, St. Francois and Ste. Genevieve counties.

Registrations Taken For Vo-Tech School

Registrations are now being taken for adult education courses offered by the Cape Girardeau Vocational-Technical School at 301 N. Clark St. in Cape Girardeau. Enrollment may be made by mail, telephone or a visit to the school.

Classes will begin the week of Sept. 25.

Post- high school classes, which meet four nights a week, include: radio and TV, welding, refrigeration and air conditioning and auto mechanics. All post- high school classes are approved for veterans.

Regular adult classes range from general education to occupational skills.

The adult basic education and high school equivalency programs will be offered at no charge. An adult high school diploma program is offered for the first time and is designed for those adults who need only a few credits to finish high school. Credit can be given through examination, courses and other educational experience.

Also, offered for the first time are do- it- yourself courses in French, Spanish, German, shorthand theory and sliderule. Cassette tapes and film loops are used for this individualized instruction.

For additional information, call, write or visit the Vocational- Technical School in Cape Girardeau.

Textile Workers Like Three Day Work Week

GASTONIA, N. C. (AP) — Lester Cutler, a 51-year-old textile mill owner, is as proud as a new father about a three-day work week he has initiated for his employes. He says he thinks it is "as historical as Ford's $5a-day plan."

Most of the employes at Cutler's Wales Manufacturing Co. are off four days a week, putting in three 12-hour days to earn their full 40-hour pay per week.

Grace Martin, back on the job after a four-day weekend, said: "I was glad to come back. It's unusual for me to miss work that much."

Mrs. Martin runs a knitting machine and says the long day at work does not tire her. There are several short breaks throughout the day and a half hour for lunch.

Another worker, Gloria Bryson, said, "I didn't think I'd feel that good" as she did after her three 12-hour work days.

"If I have to work 40 or 48 hours, this is the best way. I have more time at home," she added.

Cutler says he began thinking about the best way to utilize his plant nearly a year ago, noting that the best utilization of his equipment requires 24-hour operation.

He said he used to have three groups of 30 employes for three eight-hour shifts each work day.

"Now we have 30 working from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Wednesday, another 30 from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. those days, 30 more on two shifts like that Thursday through Saturday — four groups of 30.

"We created more jobs," he said.

He cites what he thinks are its main benefits:

"First in today's mode of life one of the main things people are looking for is time off.

"Second, instead of driving to work five days, now they come three days. There is some savings: less wear and tear on automobiles, less gas.

"Third, some females require babysitters, instead of five days, now only two or three. Their husbands can often keep the children one day.

"If it doesn't work, we can always go back — but I don't think so. I'd have one hell of a problem if we went back.

"I'd be tarred and feathered."

Nixon Strikes At Reruns

LOS ANGELES (AP)—President Nixon has backed a move to cut the number of reruns on prime time television, saying unless networks act voluntarily "we will explore whatever regulatory recommendations are in orddr."

Nixon, in a letter to the Screen Actors Guild released Thursday, said he agrees with SAG complaints that the increasing use of reruns poses an economic threat to the television industry. He promised an investigation into the situation.

"I am convinced that in cutting the amount of original programming the TV networks are failing to serve their own best interests as well as those of the public," the President wrote Guild President John Gavin.

Nixon said he has instructed Clay T. Whitehead, director of the White House Office of Telecommunications Policy, to "thoroughly investigate the problem" with an eye to a voluntary solution by the networks before any "regulatory recommendations" are studied.

Whitehead said Thursday that the "spreading blight" of television reruns could be solved by creation of a fourth commercial television network.

"Creation of a new network may well be the only way to meet the needs of program diversity and audience choice," Whitehead told the San Francisco chapter of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences.

"From what I've seen already, this will be a good profit year in the TV industry," Whitehead said. "I've also heard that the Hollywood studios are on the ropes — that at any one time there are many craft unions with 50 per cent to 75 per cent of their members out of work.

"It is not clear whether there is a relationship between either of these facts and the spreading blight of reruns, but this is a matter that requires some close scrutiny."

Whitehead said a study by Hollywood unions "hardhit" by reruns claims that reruns constitute 60 per cent of network prime time as a nationwide average. "This has happened slowly, but it is now getting to critical proportions," he said.

"I've read that the networks are working with a 44-week schedule, which contemplates 20 to 22 weeks of reruns, and this doesn't even take the summer weeks into account," Whitehead said.

"We are going to look at the rerun problem carefully and make our recommendations to the (FCC) Federal Communications Commission if necessary or urge the networks to take whatever action is deemed appropriate," he said.

Book Review

A CALL FROM AUSTRIAL
By Martha Albeand
Avon V2436/$.75/192 pp.)

A CALL FROM AUSTRIA, the fifthe of nineteen titles by Martha Albrand to be published by Avon Books in a uniform format, is the story of an international reporter's perilous involvement with a new Nazi party.

Robert Brisson has uncovered more than his share of deadly plots. Now he finds himself caught up in the most incredible conspiracy of all -- a Nazi resurgence of enormous dimensions backed by a hidden fortune. An urgent call from Austria leads him through a network of stinging suspense and into the arms of an unforgettable woman.

Avon has previously published A DAY IN MONTE CARLO, THE HUNTED WOMAN, MEET ME TONIGHT and WISPERING HILL.

CHAROTTE MORE
By Maria Lodi
(Avon W339/$1.25/384 pp.)

When the young and beautiful Charlotte Morel arrives in Paris, she finds herself at the center of a dangerous whirlpool of scandalous and ruthless power. The times abound with factions and hatred when she begins to play a central role in the turblent intrigue surrounding Napoleon's inner circle.

Married to the vain Etienne Floquet, Charlotte flaunts convention as she takes the brilliiant writer, Thomas Becque, for her lover. Together they fight for the right to love without shame or guilt - confronting their desperate passions in one of the most powerful love stories of all time!

What's The Law

The Case Of The Bad Golfer

By Jack Strauss LL. B.

Mortiner purhased a lovely home adjacent to the 13th fairway of a golf club. Between his property line and the fairway, however, stood 30 feet of dense trees that ranged anywhere from 45 to 60 feet in height.

Consequently, Mortimer wasn't particularly concerned about flying golf balls one hot afternoon as he was sipping dry martinis on his patio. The severe headache he subsequently acquired, however, wasn't from the martinis. Standing on the 13th tee, Harvey lofted an extraorinarily bad shot that cleared the trees and skulled poor Mortimer.

Upon recovering from the clunking, Mortimer sued both Harvey and the golf club for his injuries.

"How Harvey managed to clear those trees with his golf balls," responded an official of the club, "is beyond me. It was like hitting his ball over the Rocky Mountains. Certainly we can't be held responsible for so improbable a feat."

"Whiel it may have seemed improbable," was Mortimer's answer, "Harvey sure proved that it was possible. And, the knob on my noggin confirms it. Consequently, I'm entitled to collect for their skull -dugery."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit Mortimer to collect for the consequences of Harvey's extraordinary bad shot?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that the law does not afford protection against unlikely misfortune. In this case, with the barrier of tall trees, it could not reasonably have been anticipated that someone might hit such a powerfully bad shot that it would clear the trees and strike someone on the other side.

Sales Slow On Guns Then Twelve Stolen

COLUMBIA, Tenn. (AP) — Mike Morris said he had just commented to a coworker at Gibson's discount store Thursday about how slow handgun sales had been. The next customer pulled a gun of his own and stole 12 of them.

"I was just looking at the gun counter and said, 'We haven't sold many handguns this week,' just before the robbery," related Morris, manager of the store's sporting goods section.

Morris said the robber carried a sawed-off shotgun under his coat and pulled it out after carefully looking over the display counter. He said the man didn't demand any cash — just the guns.

Danes Modernize Greenlands Eskimo Justice System

GODTHAAB, Greenland (AP) — This is where murderers serve their time in an open prison whose inmates go out to earn money for use on release.

Once-remote settlements of seal hunters meted out traditional Eskimo justice. An assault was punished with a beating by other men. A murderer would be exiled — certain death under arctic conditions.

When the Danes began modernizing this island they concentrated the population in small townships along the coast, and introduced European-style treatment of crime. They found the idea of being locked up was alien to the Greenland temperament. The open detention center, serving all Greenland, was started in 1967. Called the Institution for Convicts, it has places for 18 male inmates, but sometimes has to take a few more.

The geography prevents fugitives from getting very far, and most return voluntarily. Punishment for "a little excursion" is loss of privileges for a time.

The detention center is as comfortable as a typical hostel for young workers. It is that in effect, because inmates average 23-25 years of age. So long as they behave they go out to work in the town every day, at union rates. Every week authorities deduct about $17 for board and lodging, and allow $6 pocket money.

After deductions for fines, damages, child support and clothing, the balance is banked for the prisoner's release.

Per Hamann, chief of the institute, says the longest-serving inmate has 29,000 kroner, over $4,000 to his credit.

Chief of Police J.R. Carlsson reports that 90 per cent of crime is committed under the influence of alcohol. Until 1954 Greenlanders had only a homebrew kind of beer. When the island ceased to be a colony and became part of the Kingdom of Denmark the inhabitants received the rights — and temptations — of Danish citizens.

When the time comes for parole the apparatus of the Danish welfare state is mobilized to see that ex-prisoners have jobs, somewhere to live and free medical treatment.

The police chief says it's too early to tell statistically whether the combination of open determination and rehabilitation is working. It is roughly estimated that recidivism, meaning repeat crimes, is about 25 per cent, half the rate in Denmark proper.

St. Louis JC's Work On Plan For Pavilion

ST. LOUIS (AP)-- The Jaycees here are working on a plan whereby they could pay off the debts on the Spanish International Pavilion and have the idle building be operated for public use.

The St. Louis Jaycees Foundation said today the idea is to get the Pavilion back in operation to help spur the development of the downtown area.

The Pavilion is located just north of Busch Memorial Stadium. It was a main attraction at the New York World's Fair in 1964 and was later dismantled and moved to St. Louis. But lack of tourists and high costs caused the creditors to lock the doors more than two years ago.

One proposed use for the Pavilion is to turn it into an Aquacenter. Part of the building would be used for an aquarium and office space would be rented out.

Full details of the Jaycees plan have not been released but it was reported to involve donating of outstanding bonds to the non-profit Jaycees Foundation. Civic Center Redevelopment Corporation, which leases the land, is the holder of the bonds. Carondelet Savings and Loan Association holds a $2.5 million dollar mortgage on the building.

CITY OF SIKESTON, MO.
Resolution

A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of one and one-half inch hotmix asphaltic pavement on six inch soil cement base on Peach Tree Lane from Baker Lane to dead end in the city of Sikeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the council of the city of Sikeston, state of Missouri, as follows: section 1: that the council of the city of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the city of Sikeston. section 2: that the nature and scope of the improvement shall consist of furnishing all cost, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. section 3: that the estimated cost of the improvement is $3.00 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement. section 4: that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the state of Missouri and the ordinances of the city of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the city council the general revenue fund of the city of Sikeston is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement. section 5: that any work performed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the state of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the industrial commission of Missouri. section 6: that the city clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the city of Sikeston,, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions. Read the first, second and third times and passed and approved this 5th day of September, 1972. Approved: Frank Ferrell, Mayor; Attest: John W. Vaughn, City Clerk.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, Sept. 18, the 262nd day of 1972. There are 104 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1793, PresiDent George Washington laid the cornerstone of the Capitol Building in Washington.

On this date:

In 1759, the French surrendered Quebec to the British.

In 1810, Chile declared independence from Spain.

In 1850, the U.S. Congress passed the Fugitive Slave Act, Permitting slave owners to reclaim slaves who had escaped into other states.

In 1931, Japan began military occupation of Manchuria.

In 1961, U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold was killed in an airplane crash in northern Rhodesia.

Ten years ago: The Soviet Union accused France and West Germany of scheming to block an East-West settlement on Berlin.

Five years ago: The United States announced it would build an anti-missile network to counter any attack by Communist China.

One year ago: Egypt and Israel exchanged rocket fire across the Suez Canal for the first time since a cease-fire 13 months earlier.

Today's birthdays: former film star Greta Garbo is 67 years old. Undersecretary of State Curtis W. Tarr is 48.

Thought for today: I won't quarrel with my bread and butter — Jonathan Swift, English satirist, 1667-1745.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Keeping in Shape

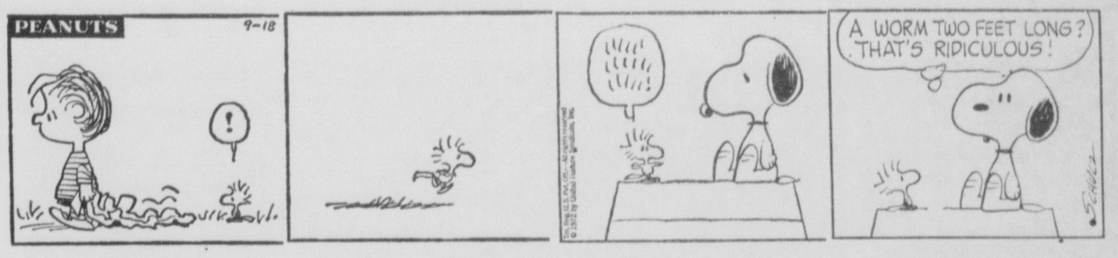

WITH schools and colleges opening across the country, it is well to remember that all nature is a classroom, and the wise man can find a learning experience in any situation. The obvious lesson here is that bike riding does wonders for good health, physical fitness and an attractive figure. We rate the young lady A-plus in Bikeology.

Another A-plus rating is the BMA/6 Seal of Certification, found on the seat mast, under the saddle of many American bikes. It means that production models have been tested by the Nationwide Consumer Testing Institute.

Deaths

HOWARD I. STURGEON

MALDEN — Services for Howard Isac Sturgeon, 84, who died Friday in Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff, were held today at 2 p.m. in Boyd Funeral Chapel. The Rev. Jim Black officiated, assisted by the Rev. C. Winberry.

A retired farmer, he was a lifetime resident of this area. He was born Sept. 22, 1887 near Zalma.

On Jan. 31, 1910, he married Clara Lorine Lacy, who preceded him in death.

His second wife, Stella Myrtle Belt Sturgeon, whom he married Sept. 14, 1946 near Piggott, Ark., survives.

Other survivors include three sons, Alfred Sturgeon of Neelyville, A. E. Sturgeon of Malden and Bill Sturgeon of Poplar Bluff; four daughters, Mrs. Cecil Mincey of Malden, Mrs. Perry T. Mosbey of St. Charles, Mrs. Freda Gulley of Flint, Mich., and Mrs. R. G. Arrington of Neelyville; one half brother, Jasper Sturgeon of Fredericktown; one stepson, Edward Roland of Flint, Mich.; six stepdaughters, Irene Rigsbee of Jonesboro, Ark., Evelyn Hampton and Wanda Pickard of Malden, Lillian Brandt of Orange, Calif., Vella Cloud of Flint, Mich., and Mildred Shaw of Montgomery, Fla.; and 16 grandchildren, 29 great- grandchildren and two great- great- grandchildren.

Burial was in Memorial Park Cemetery.

HATTIE HAWKINS

Hattie Hawkins, 62, of Route Four, died Saturday at Chaffee General Hospital.

She was born Dec. 25, 1909 at Winona, Miss.

Survivors include one son, Willie C. Hawkins, and two daughters, Mildred and Ola Hawkins, all of Sikeston; and one sister, Luddie Williams of Mississippi.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday in Christian Memorial Funeral Home with Russell Knauer, presiding minister of the Jehovah's Witness congregation, officiating.

Burial will follow in Smith Cemetery.

JOHN R. MILLER

BELEN, N.M. — John R. Miller, 31, a former resident of Canalou, Mo., died Friday approximately nine miles from Albuquerque in an automobile accident.

The body is being returned to Sikeston, Mo., and will be taken to Christian Memorial Funeral Home.

Arrangements are incomplete.

REATHA L. WHITE

CHARLESTON — Services for Mrs. Reatha Lora White, 62, who died Friday in Battle Creek, Mich., will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday at McMikle Funeral Home with the Rev. Clyde Livingston officiating.

Burial will be in IOOF Cemetery.

She was born Sept. 26, 1909 in Tennessee and was a member of Bement Baptist Church. She was employed at Brown Shoe Co. in Charleston.

Survivors include her widower, Erris Lyndon White; one son, Kenneth Leon White of Chicago; three daughters, Mrs. U. G. Cotty of Conran, Mrs. Joe O'Guin of Battle Creek, Mich., and Mrs. Wallace Kernel of Chicago; two sisters, Mrs. Rob Wagster of Trenton, Tenn., and Mrs. Wilbert Carter of Taylor, Mich.; and 10 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

5 Arrested

CHARLESTON — Police reported five arrests during the weekend.

Kenneth Hudson, 27, of East Prairie and Dorothy Hooper, 40, of Bertrand each paid a fine today in City Court of $108 for driving while intoxicated.

Charges of public intoxication brought an $18 fine to Lloyd Haynes, 20, of Charleston; a $33 fine to Ted Allen Reynold, 21, of Charleston; and a $16 fine to Billie Skelton, 23, of East Prairie.

14-Year-Old Accidentally Shot To Death

FAIRDEALING —Charles Stuart Guinn, 14, of Fairdealing, was accidentally shot and killed by James Lee Robinson, 16, of Fairdealing, Route One at 12:40 p.m. Saturday about one -quarter mile north of Fairdealing.

According to the highway patrol, Guinn shot Robinson's 20 -guage shotgun and then, without saying anything, reloaded it. A few minutes later, Robinson picked up the gun to reload it. The gun discharged as he started to open the chamber.

Guinn, who was standing 60 feet away, was struck in the forehead and killed.

Dog's Name 'Gator Bait' Is Prophetic

BOC RATON, Fla. (AP) — What's in a name? Well, it was a prophecy of doom for a dog named Gator Bait who was eaten by an alligator named Aloysius.

Gater Bait was the 5-month-old pet Dalmatian of the Roger Miller family, who live near Lake Floresta in this community north of Fort Lauderdale.

About a week ago, Gator Bait and Jeff Miller, 18, were walking near the lakeside when Jess warned the dog to stop sniffing around near the water, which harbors a number of gators. But Gator Bait later sneaked back to the lake.

The last the family saw of their pet was "a yelp and a splash" and the gator known as Aloysius surfacing a few minutes later, chewing contentedly.

Mental Health Officers To Be Installed
